Arsonists Cause Vast Damage in Cleveland Rioting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Arsonists caused mounting destruction in the fourth straight night of disorder in Negro slums and other areas on Cleveland's East Side Thursday night, putting a heavy strain on this city's firefighting forces.

The Fire Department reported before midnight that all East Side fire equipment was in use and that additional equipment would be called from West Side stations.

However, incidents of arson and firebombing appeared to be tapering off early today.

Firebombs ignited numerous fires Thursday night — another night of hectic scrambling by firemen. There were reports of gunfire in several spots but the only known victim was wounded accidentally by his own gun.

A Negro councilman, M. Morris Jackson, requested Mayor Ralph S. Locher to ask that martial law be declared and said he would go directly to Gov. James A. Rhodes or President Johnson if he doesn't get action.

Locher, huddling with National Guard officers, was not available for comment. In Columbus, the governor's office said at this point there was no indication that martial law was contemplated.

Police were reinforced by nearly 2,000 National Guardsmen in patrolling wide areas radiating from the slum storm center, now sealed off.

Negro Boy Is Killed in Brooklyn Fuss

NEW YORK (AP) — Hundreds of residents of a tense, racially mixed Brooklyn slum area battled each other and police Thursday night with guns, bottles and rocks. An 11-year-old Negro boy was killed, apparently by sniper fire.

The violence broke out in the East New York section, a tenement neighborhood that for months has been the scene of sporadic fighting among Negroes, Puerto Ricans and Italian-Americans.

Ten policemen, four firemen and three residents of the area were reported injured, none seriously.

Earlier in the evening, a 3-year-old Negro boy was wounded in the stomach by a rifle bullet 20 blocks away from the scene of the disorders, but police said the incident was unrelated.

Eight Negroes were arrested on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to throwing fire bombs.

Store windows in the area were smashed and there was some looting, police reported.

The dead boy, Eric Dean, was hit in the chest, apparently by a sniper's bullet, police said, as Negroes carrying bottles, rocks and sticks roamed neighborhood streets. They said they were armed to ward off possible attacks by whites.

Frenchman Starts To Hike Length of Death Valley

DEATH VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Only three pairs of socks and sneaker soles separate a French explorer from ground temperatures as high as 190 degrees as he attempts to hike the length of this national monument.

Park officials offer best wishes, but no help if he disappears. Jean Pierre Marquant, 28, who once spent 103 days hiking over 1,000 miles of Algerian desert, is the first person officials know of deliberately attempting a crossing of Death Valley in summer.

He started the 100-mile trek at sundown Wednesday wearing a 10-gallon hat, three T-shirts, gloves, short pants, three pairs of socks and tennis shoes. Marquant also has blue-tinted glasses and a large umbrella.

Death Valley literally is the hottest spot on earth. Officials say average temperatures in July run from 100 to 130 degrees in the shade, with ground surface temperatures as high as 190 degrees.

Because of this heat, a ground search party will not be sent to look for Marquant if he should

The toll of violence after four days: Two Negroes killed by gunfire. More than 30 persons injured. Heavy property damage from fires, window smashing and looting.

Vacant buildings were a frequent target of arsonists in and around the Hough section, center of rioting that was triggered Monday night by a tavern dispute.

The biggest blazes Thursday night ruined two unoccupied apartment houses. There were numerous small fires. In the early morning hours today, fire broke out at a supermarket outside the riot area.

The rioting, which has brought a move for congressional inquiry here and in several other cities, stirred anger and apprehension among Negro residents living in and around the worst hit areas of Cleveland.

"The hoodlums are taking advantage of the situation," said Arnold Shepherd, 26, a crane operator who voiced strong disapproval of the violence.

"People are scared," said a Negro woman.

Some of the Negroes said they believed the disorders were organized — the view taken by some officials, including City Council President James V. Stanton.

"There was selectivity in the firebombings and in the looting," he said. "With selectivity there had to be organization."

Rep. Michael A. Feighan, D-Ohio, said in Washington Thursday he had received numerous appeals for a congressional committee inquiry into the causes of riots here and in other cities, including Chicago; Omaha, Neb.; Los Angeles; Philadelphia, and Jacksonville, Fla.

Violence erupted in East New York, a slum area of Brooklyn. An 11-year-old boy was shot to death in that outbreak, apparently by sniper fire. Hundreds of policemen rushed to the area, battled crowds of whites, Negroes and Puerto Ricans.

Still hospitalized in Cleveland were a young Negro mother and her 4-year-old son, wounded early Thursday when officers fired on a car lurching toward policemen at the scene of a fire. An eyewitness had said guardsmen fired also, but a National Guard spokesman denied this.

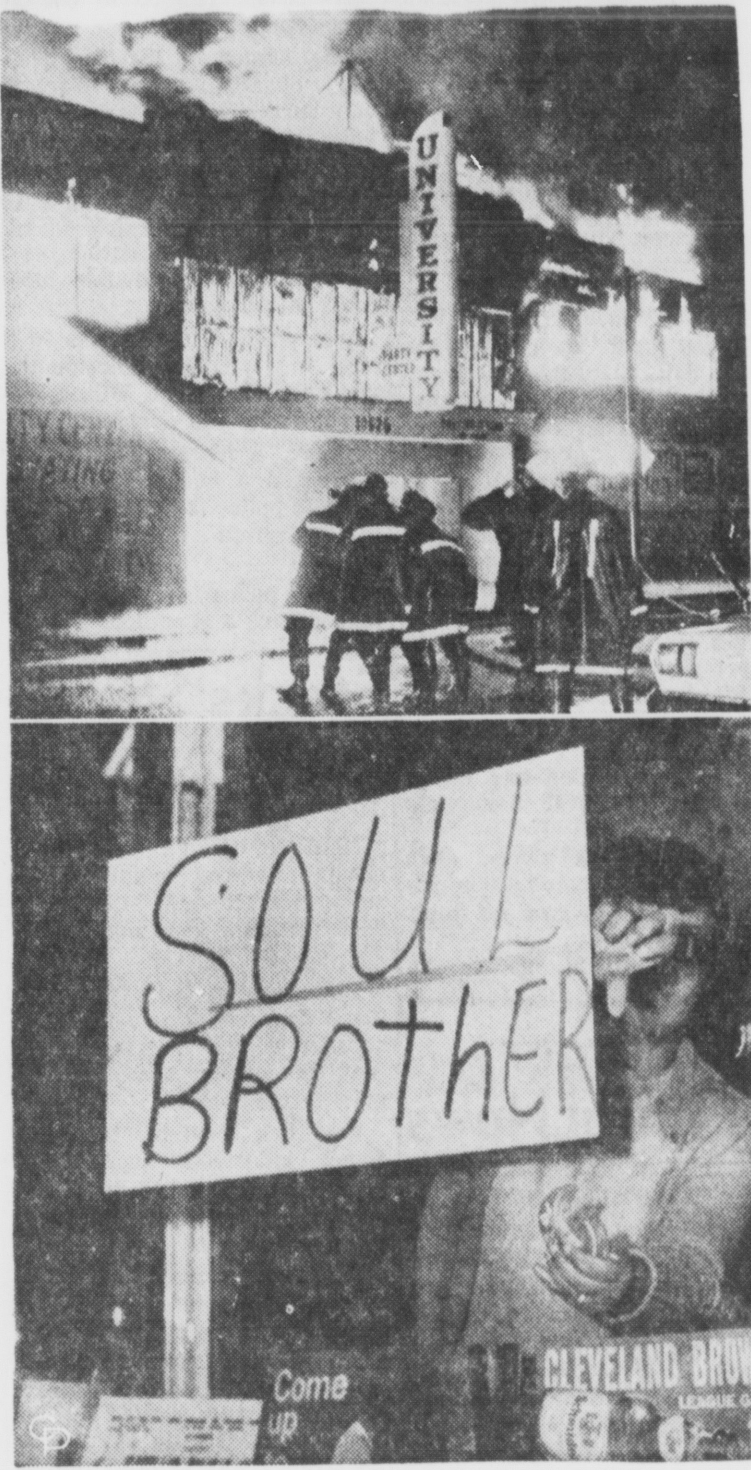

Prince of Arabia Visiting in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A son of Saudi Arabia's King Faisal who recently visited the United States is in Ohio for a visit of his own.

Prince Turki Faisal, 24, arrived Thursday as guest of the Ohio Collegiate Association on World Affairs.

He plans to tour Columbus, neighboring Reynoldsburg for a first-hand look at American suburban life and Washington Court House for a visit with a musical group, the Cavaliers, who played at a recent reception at the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Washington.

Most of this activity is planned for Saturday.

Stores around her, owned by whites, were broken into.

Health Service Declares Average American Is Fat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government announced today what most of us already know: Americans are getting fatter. Fatter than the British, the Canadians and goodness knows who else.

The Public Health Service offered no explanation. But 3,086 beefed-up foreign students offer plenty. They involve American favorites such as fried chicken, pumpkin pie and ice cream.

Living for a year with American families, the teen-agers gained an over-all 16 tons

They're taking home their added pounds to 59 countries this weekend.

Almost any one of the American Field Service students from overseas will say he or she gained from 2 or 3 to 30 or 40 pounds. No one said his or her new size would hurt the American image, but few thought it would help it.

Tamara Magalotti of Frol, Italy, gained 25 pounds on "malts, ice-cream, pastries and pies. Americans eat and eat, can't get over it."

They call Nora Champen of Piura, Peru, "Porky" now that she's added 25 pounds on pumpkin pie and other goodies. Katie A. Ketonen of Helsinki, Finland, added 20 pounds. She blames fried chicken and ice cream.

Hiroshi Tanaka of Tokyo, gained 25 pounds on Mexican-type food and reports "it's going to be hard to explain. I plan to say 'Americans are just fatter.'"

The Public Health Service survey which adds weight to this view was made between 1959 and 1962 and covered 3,672 adults. It is the first such nationwide study by the government.

Findings compared to similar British and Canadian studies showed that Americans weighed about five pounds more than the Canadians and 10 to 15 pounds more than the British.

The Americans examined were between the ages of 18 and 79. The Public Health Service said comparisons were made "without adjustments for clothing." There are some average weights reported in its findings:

Men—146 pounds at 5 feet 2.
Women—142 pounds at 5 feet 2.

Men—168 pounds at 5 feet 8.
Women—154 pounds at 5 feet 8.

Men—190 pounds at 6 feet 1.

19 Red Viets May Be Used In Exchange

Speculation Grows On Subject of Swap Of War Prisoners

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials have declined comment on unofficial speculation that 19 recently captured North Vietnamese sailors may figure in any prisoner exchange involving captive American pilots.

Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman disclosed during the weekend that the United States had captured the sailors from torpedo boats involved in a Gulf of Tonkin naval engagement.

Other Communist prisoners have been turned over to South Viet Nam. But when a State Department spokesman was asked Thursday what would be done with the North Vietnamese seamen, he declined to say.

Harriman, who heads U.S. efforts in behalf of American prisoners in Viet Nam, also said in a Voice of America radio interview that efforts had fallen through to exchange a captured Viet Cong terrorist for Gustav Hertz, a U.S. aid official held by Communist guerrillas.

Hanoi has threatened to try captured American pilots as war criminals, contending the 1949 Geneva convention's prisoners of war rules do not apply to captives of the Viet Nam war.

Officials disclosed Thursday that the United States is informing the International Red Cross through diplomatic channels that it will attend either a large or small conference to discuss applying the Geneva conventions on prisoner treatment.

One possibility, the officials said, would be to have the seven powers with troops in Viet Nam participate in the talks. These are the United States, Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, the Philippines and North and South Viet Nam.

They said another possibility might be talks between the

Insanity Plea To Be Heard In Massacre

CHICAGO (AP) — Public Defender Gerald Getty says he will enter a plea of innocent for Richard Speck, accused of murdering eight student nurses last week in their townhouse dormitory.

"We can't plead guilty to anything as I project the defense," Getty said Thursday. "We will leave it up to the jury to decide his fate."

Getty, appointed by a Circuit Court judge to defend Speck, said he would plead the ex-criminal not guilty by reason of insanity.

Speck had lost 1½ pints of blood by the time he arrived in the Cook County Hospital emergency room early Sunday after slashing his arms in a skid row hotel. Fifteen hours earlier Police Supt. O.W. Wilson had announced that Speck was being sought in the murder of eight student nurses from the South Chicago Community Hospital early July 14.

He has been formally charged with the murder of Gloria Jean Dwyer, 22, of Dyer, Ind., believed to have been the first of the nurses slain.

Police said Speck's picture was identified by the sole survivor, Corazon Amurao, 23, a Filipino exchange nurse, as the killer, and that three of his fingerprints were found in the townhouse.

Man Slays 4, Then Kills Self

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A former mental patient apparently drowned two little boys, strangled their mother and a neighbor's child, and then slashed his own throat with razor blades, say police.

The victims were Elias Vargas, 30, Rosa Gonzalez, 25; her sons, Elias Vargas Jr., 2, and Eriberto Rivera, 3, and Aricellis Acosta, 8, daughter of Mrs. Marguerita Rodriguez, who lived in the same building as Mrs. Gonzalez.

Officers said there was a history of trouble between Vargas and the Gonzalez woman and he was jailed on assault and battery charges July 15 on a warrant sworn out by her.

Marines Battle Elite Red Unit

Gemini Crew Returns to Base

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Flashing broad smiles, the Gemini 10 astronauts flew back to Cape Kennedy today to fill in the details of one of man's most remarkable and significant space flights.

Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and space-walker Michael Collins, an Air Force major, landed in a light drizzle here at 10:33 a.m. after a 91-minute helicopter flight from the carrier Guadalcanal.

During 70 hours, 47 minutes in space they caught and docked with one Agena satellite, used the Agena engine to dart to a record altitude of 476 miles, and rendezvoused with an old lifeless Agena.

Collins set records of his own when he made two space excursions — one a "stand-up" maneuver, the other a space walk. Although both were shortened by problems, he walked over to the "dead" Agena and retrieved a package that had been recording micrometeorite impacts for four months.

They brought back a total of seven space "firsts."

Young and Collins climaxed their brilliant flight late Thursday steering Gemini 10 to a near perfect landing in the western Atlantic Ocean about 550 miles east southeast of Cape Kennedy.

The spacecraft splashed down only 7.5 miles from the Guadalcanal. Less than half an hour later a helicopter deposited them on the deck of the carrier as the ship's band played "It's a Big, Wide Wonderful World."

"It's a pleasure to be here," Young told the sailors on the ship.

"Thanks for picking us up," Collins added. "Beautiful job."

Below decks, a physical examination awaited and the first of numerous sessions with technical experts who will evaluate every phase of the mission.

"They have no medical problems," reported Dr. Kenneth Beers. "They're in good shape."

He said they were so thirsty that within a short period Collins drank four colas and Young had five glasses of water.

The astronauts, both 35, will remain at Cape Kennedy until Sunday night or Monday, discussing the flight in general terms. Then they will fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., for eight days of detailed debriefings.

On Aug. 1, they'll hold a news conference in Houston.

Space Agency officials hailed Gemini 10 as one of the most rewarding man-in-space flights yet. Said Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA associate administrator.

Careermen Added To Parole Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Appointments of two career employees in the state's parole system to promotions filling vacancies on the Ohio Parole Board were announced today by George F. Denton, chief of the Adult Parole Authority.

Denton picked John W. Shoemaker, 37, of Columbus, and George A. Bustamante, 39, of Shaker Heights, to complete the seven-member board. Both have been in the parole system for 10 years.

Shoemaker will succeed Harry T. Marshall recently named a judge of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, effective Aug. 1; and Bustamante will replace Joseph Doneghy, who resigned, on Aug. 15.

Garage Attendant Gets Startling Note

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An attendant at a Pittsburgh garage told police a man walked up to him Thursday and asked him if he could read.

The attendant, Wallace Webb, 31, replied he could, and the man handed him this note: "All right, man, this is a holdup. Put all the money in the bag and don't try anything." The bandit escaped with $18.

Commie Toll Running High

Fight Is Near North Frontier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines battled through the night against a large force from an elite North Vietnamese division in the jungles and hills nearly atop the 17th Parallel frontier. At dawn, they called in Marine planes to prevent the enemy from fleeing toward Laos.

Hard fighting pushed the probable Communist toll in the eight-day Marine drive to more than 1,000 killed, the Marine command said.

In Saigon, U.S. military headquarters said the foe was the crack North Vietnamese 324-B Division of 8,000 to 10,000 men under the command of a tough mountaineer general known to favor "human wave" assaults.

It was the first time in the war a full North Vietnamese division has been reported in action in the South as a single organized force.

Over the Communist North, U.S. jet planes kept up the unrelenting air war, attacking nine oil depots and touching off fires at seven of them, despite a heavy barrage of 19 missiles. The loss of two more planes during the raids Thursday brought the toll over the North to nine this week.

One of the pilots was rescued. The other was listed as missing. A U.S. spokesman refused to say whether any of the Soviet-built missiles brought down either of the planes.

A task force of 7,000 U.S. Marines and 3,000 South Vietnamese troops just below the

GOP Leader Raps Nation's 'Global Dole'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders said today the way to avoid inflation is to cut President Johnson's "recklessly swollen" budget, beginning with foreign aid.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told a news conference the "global dole" of economic assistance "must be curtailed."

"Getting dough out of Uncle Sam has become a way of life for the rest of the world — a very happy way of life for many foreign nations but a drain upon America's economic life blood that can no longer be tolerated," Dirksen said.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the Democrats are responsible for "excessive spending" which he said already has brought about inflation.

Camp Site Development Studied at Marion Park

An extensive camp site development is being considered by the Division of Parks of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources at A. W. Marion State Park, according to Marvin Rebholz, division chief.

Until the study of the camp site development is completed, Rebholz said that other planned projects at the park have been temporarily tabled. The area considered is on the east side of the lake.

Last summer, the legislature appropriated $110,000 to be spent at Hargus Lake. At that time, the Division of Parks proposed to acquire more land, planned to build a boat launching site, improve and enlarge parking lots, plus other capital improvements.

The real estate section of the division of parks contacted area property holders concerning the acquisition of favorable land sites. In view of the costs involved, none was purchased, the division chief reported.

Rebholz states the division will wait until the study is completed, then approach the next legislature with a request for necessary funds to carry out the project.

He said some additional land may have to be purchased in the camp site area and for access purposes.

The astronauts, both 35, will remain at Cape Kennedy until Sunday night or Monday, discussing the flight in general terms. Then they will fly to the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex., for eight days of detailed briefings.

On Aug. 1, they'll hold a news conference in Houston.

Space Agency officials hailed Gemini 10 as one of the most rewarding man-in-space flights yet. Said Dr. George E. Mueller, NASA associate administrator:

"The Gemini 10 mission was a very important step in the development of man's ability to live and work in space. It was a very rapid rate," he said, and while milk production per cow has increased it has not offset the drop in the number of cows producing.

Careermen Added To Parole Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Appointments of two career employees in the state's parole system to promotions filling vacancies on the Ohio Parole Board were announced today by George F. Denton, chief of the Adult Parole Authority.

Denton picked John W. Shoemaker, 37, of Columbus, and George A. Bustamante, 39, of Shaker Heights, to complete the seven-member board. Both have been in the parole system for 10 years.

Shoemaker will succeed Harry T. Marshall recently named a judge of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, effective Aug. 1; and Bustamante will replace Joseph Doneghy, who resigned, on Aug. 15.

Garage Attendant Gets Startling Note

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An attendant at a Pittsburgh garage told police a man walked up to him Thursday and asked him if he could read.

The attendant, Wallace Webb, 31, replied he could, and the man handed him this note: "All right, man, this is a holdup. Put all the money in the bag and don't try anything."

The bandit escaped with $15.

Commie Toll Running High

Fight Is Near North Frontier

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Marines battled through the night against a large force from an elite North Vietnamese division in the jungles and hills nearly atop the 17th Parallel frontier. At dawn, they called in Marine planes to prevent the enemy from fleeing toward Laos.

Hard fighting pushed the probable Communist toll in the eight-day Marine drive to more than 1,000 killed, the Marine command said.

In Saigon, U.S. military headquarters said the foe was the crack North Vietnamese 324-B Division of 8,000 to 10,000 men under the command of a tough mountaineer general known to favor "human wave" assaults.

It was the first time in the war a full North Vietnamese division has been reported in action in the South as a single organized force.

Over the Communist North, U.S. jet planes kept up the unrelenting air war, attacking nine oil depots and touching off fires at seven of them, despite a heavy barrage of 19 missiles. The loss of two more planes during the raids Thursday brought the toll over the North to nine this week.

One of the pilots was rescued. The other was listed as missing.

A U.S. spokesman refused to say whether any of the Soviet-built missiles brought down either of the planes.

A task force of 7,000 U.S. Marines and 3,000 South Vietnamese troops just below the

GOP Leader Raps Nation's 'Global Dole'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican congressional leaders said today the way to avoid inflation is to cut President Johnson's "recklessly swollen" budget, beginning with foreign aid.

Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told a news conference the "global dole" of economic assistance "must be curtailed."

"Getting dough out of Uncle Sam has become a way of life for the rest of the world — a very happy way of life for many foreign nations but a drain upon America's economic life blood that can no longer be tolerated," Dirksen said.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the Democrats are responsible for "excessive spending" which he said already has brought about inflation.

Trustees To Parley

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The annual summer convention of the Ohio State Association of Township Trustees and Clerks will be held Aug. 4-6 at the Netherland Hotel in Cincinnati.

Camp Site Development Studied at Marion Park

An extensive camp site development is being considered by the Division of Parks of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources at A. W. Marion State Park, according to Marvin Rebholz, division chief.

Until the study of the camp site development is completed, Rebholz said that other planned projects at the park have been temporarily tabled. The area considered is on the east side of the lake.

Last summer, the legislature appropriated $110,000 to be spent at Hargus Lake. At that time, the Division of Parks proposed to acquire more land, planned to build a boat launching site, improve and enlarge parking lots, plus other capital improvements.

The real estate section of the division of parks contacted area property holders concerning the acquisition of favorable land sites. In view of the costs involved, none was purchased, the division chief reported.

REBOLZ states the division will wait until the study is completed, then approach the next legislature with a request for necessary funds to carry out the project.

He said some additional land may have to be purchased in the camp site area and for access purposes.

Driver Hurt In Crash on Route 104

A Circleville man was injured at 2:30 a. m. today when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed, according to the State Highway Patrol.

George A. Trego, 22, of 464 Stella Ave., received multiple abrasions to his head and shoulder. He was treated and released at Berger Hospital.

Officers said the accident occurred on Route 104 a short distance south of Route 316.

Patrolmen reported Trego apparently fell asleep while traveling south on Route 104. His car veered off the right side of the road, swerved over to the left side where it crashed into a ditch, struck a fence and severed a telephone pole.

The driver was cited to appear in Circleville Municipal Court for reckless operation.

Chicago Gangs End Feud, Seek Improved 'Image'

CHICAGO (AP) — "We had a bad image. This is our chance to change that image."

With those softly spoken words from a 21-year-old gang leader, two feuding Negro gangs declared a truce and said they have moved to the side of the law.

One leader said he might want to become a policeman.

The gangs appeared with Police Supt. O.W. Wilson at a news conference Thursday after a closed meeting, which the gangs had requested.

Wilson said leaders of the South Side Blackstone Rangers and the East Side Disciples "have pledged themselves to their city and they don't want it damaged or destroyed."

The gangs were not involved in the West Side riots last week.

Wilson gave credit for the transformation to Cmdr. William Griffin. He said Griffin, a Negro, turned the gangs from warring to the side of the law in a little more than a month.

Griffin said he got the leaders to agree to a truce, a truce that was to have ended two weeks ago. But it's still being observed.

Why have the gangs, each claiming more than 1,000 members, decided to call off their dispute?

Lamar Bell, 21, spokesman for the Rangers, said: "Sooner or later someone is going to get killed. We had a bad image. This is our chance to change that image."

The leader of the Disciples, Ninjo Sheed, 18, said: "Warfare only hurts our neighborhood. We have to live there. With a truce, we will be able to go to and from school without fighting all the way."

Wilson hailed the action, saying "we are delighted to have them in our corner."

When asked if the truce will have any quieting effect on the riot-torn West Side, Wilson replied, "time will only tell."

Sheed, a high school junior, expressed a desire to perhaps join the police force cadet training program after finishing school.

The police superintendent leaned back and smiled.

NEW YORK (AP)—Selective strength showed up in a mixed stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Although gainers outnumbered losers in the over-all list there was softness among a number of the key blue chips that determine some of the market indicators.

For this reason, the Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 1.56 to 872.43 even as other market indicators were on the plus side.

The great strength shown by Sperry Rand Thursday, when it became the most active stock in response to news of a dramatic increase in earnings, seemed to have whetted the appetite of the trading element in the street. Several other issues attracted buying support.

Group action, however, was ragged. Drugs recovered and airlines were ahead on balance. Plus signs outnumbered minus signs among the leading auto stocks but changes were very small. Steels were jumbled.

Deaths

MR. ELTON H. FRAZIER, Mr. Eldon Howard Frazier, 59, of 660 E. Ohio St., died 6 a. m. today in Berger Hospital.

Mr. Frazier was born June 18, 1907, in Amanda Twp., Fairfield County, the son of Joseph B. and Bertha Wolf Frazier. He was a retired steam fitter and a member of the Local 189 Plumbers and Steam Fitters Union.

Surviving are his wife, Bonnie McAllister Frazier; one son, Howard Jr., 419 E. Ohio St.; one daughter, Miss Jean Frazier, Route 2, Ashville; two brothers, Turney Frazier, Marysville; Chester Frazier, 1222 Turner Drive; three sisters, Mrs. Rose Nesser, Lancaster; Mrs. Irma Hines, Route 1, Ashville; Mrs. Huldah Calt, one; one grandchild.

Services will be 10:30 a. m. Monday at Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Roy Ferguson officiating. Burial will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p. m. Saturday.

Commie Toll

Marine Corps planes and artillery battered a jungle-covered hill identified by a captured 15-year-old private as a North Vietnamese regimental command post. One Marine battalion moved in Thursday night as a blocking force after a large North Vietnamese unit tried to move westward toward Laos.

U.S. officials did not dismiss the possibility that Communist withdrawal toward Laos or the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone only a mile or two away could be a possible enemy trap for the Leathernecks.

The 2nd Battalion of the 1st Marine Regiment came under heavy small-arms and mortar fire as the Communists apparently tried to drive the Leathernecks from astrategic hillside dominating three escape routes to Laos. The Marines replied with artillery.

The latest enemy toll in Operation Hastings which began last Friday, rose to 521 dead by body count and another 554 probably killed. Five North Vietnamese, 125 weapons and large stores of supplies have been captured.

A spokesman said allied casualties continued light, although some Leatherneck units took heavy losses in the early stages of the operation, and that enemy casualties in the latest fighting were not yet known.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The last command sent to America's lunar photographer, Surveyor 1, may be "shut up, please."

Scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Thursday that the Surveyor 1 mission is over, no more pictures will be taken. But a spokesman said, "Sometime after lunar sunrise at the end of this month we'll see if its receiver is still operating. If it is, we'll take whatever steps are necessary to make sure Surveyor 1 doesn't interfere with the mission of Surveyor 2."

The problem, he said, is that the two spacecraft speak the same language, and Surveyor 1 has no off switch.

A functioning Surveyor could receive signals meant for Surveyor 2, scheduled for launch in September.

In such an event, he said, Surveyor 1 probably will be ordered to turn its antenna away from earth.

This would end transmissions from the 260-pound spacecraft that sent back 11,150 pictures.

Scolding by Mother Leads to Tragedy

MEDA, Portugal (AP)—Mrs. Mendes Perdigao, 50, scolded her daughter Georgete, 16, on Thursday for not helping enough on the family farm.

Georgete ran off and jumped into a nearby river.

Her mother and sister Emilio, 19, plunged into the torrent to save her.

None could swim. All three drowned.

United States and North Viet Nam, or a three-country meeting of the United States, South and North Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a Chicago news conference the United States should keep Hanoi guessing about what it might do if the captured pilots are executed.

But Nixon added that "any punishment must be directed toward the leaders, who are responsible, rather than towards the people." One option, he said, might be to try North Vietnamese leaders as war criminals.

Two other Republicans, Reps. F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts and Ogden R. Reid of New York, introduced a resolution Thursday to place Congress on record warning Hanoi that any trial of the captured pilots might dash hopes for a peaceful settlement of the war.

A day earlier, Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, told the Senate the South Vietnamese are executing many prisoners. He said the United States "in the name of humanity and decency" should stop transferring Viet Cong prisoners to South Vietnamese units.

In other developments, Secretary of State Dean Rusk told a group of 3,000 foreign students that Hanoi has rejected within the past month another American bid for peace talks. He gave no other details.

In what was described as a bookkeeping maneuver, the Defense Department reclassified as captured 29 U.S. Navy airmen previously listed as missing, bringing to 63 the number of Americans officially listed as captured.

2 More Ohioans Die In Viet Nam Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army men from Cleveland and Dayton Ohio, have been killed by enemy forces in Viet Nam, the Pentagon announced Thursday. They were Pfc. Allen L. Jelinek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto F. Jelinek, Cleveland, and Douglas H. Knott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Knott, Dayton.

New Test Sub Planned

EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — North American aviation says it will build an experimental ocean submarine capable of diving to 2,000 feet. The 20-foot craft will be used for rescue and salvage operations as well as experiments, a spokesman said.

Driver Hurt In Crash on Route 104

A Circleville man was injured at 2:30 a. m. today when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and crashed, according to the State Highway Patrol.

George A. Trego, 22, of 464 Stella Ave., received multiple abrasions to his head and shoulder. He was treated and released at Berger Hospital.

Officers said the accident occurred on Route 104 a short distance south of Route 316. Patrolmen reported Trego apparently fell asleep while traveling south on Route 104. His car veered off the right side of the road, swerved over to the left side where it crashed into a ditch, struck a fence and severed a telephone pole.

The driver was cited to appear in Circleville Municipal Court for reckless operation.

Chicago Gangs End Feud, Seek Improved 'Image'

CHICAGO (AP) — "We had a bad image. This is our chance to change that image."

With those softly spoken words from a 21-year-old gang leader, two feuding Negro gangs declared a truce and said they have moved to the side of the law.

One leader said he might want to become a policeman.

The gangs appeared with Police Supt. O.W. Wilson at a news conference Thursday after a closed meeting, which the gangs had requested.

Wilson said leaders of the South Side Blackstone Rangers and the East Side Disciples "have pledged themselves to their city and they don't want it damaged or destroyed."

The gangs were not involved in the West Side riots last week. Wilson gave credit for the transformation to Cmdr. William Griffin. He said Griffin, a Negro, turned the gangs from warring to the side of the law in a little more than a month.

Griffin said he got the leaders to agree to a truce, a truce that was to have ended two weeks ago. But it's still being observed.

Why have the gangs, each claiming more than 1,000 members, decided to call off their dispute?

Lamar Bell, 21, spokesman for the Rangers, said: "Sooner or later someone is going to get killed. We had a bad image. This is our chance to change that image."

The leader of the Disciples, Ninjo Sheed, 18, said: "Warfare only hurts our neighborhood. We have to live there. With a truce, we will be able to go to and from school without fighting all the way."

Wilson hailed the action, saying "we are delighted to have them in our corner."

When asked if the truce will have any quieting effect on the riot-torn West Side, Wilson replied, "time will only tell."

Sheed, a high school junior, expressed a desire to perhaps join the police force cadet training program after finishing school.

The police superintendent leaned back and smiled.

demilitarized zone between North and South Viet Nam was attempting to block any retreat by North Viet Nam's 324-B Division.

Marine Corps planes and artillery battered a jungle-covered hill identified by a captured 15-year-old private as a North Vietnamese regimental command post. One Marine battalion moved in Thursday night as a blocking force after a large North Vietnamese unit tried to move westward toward Laos.

U.S. officials did not dismiss the possibility that Communist withdrawal toward Laos or the six-mile-wide demilitarized zone only a mile or two away could be a possible enemy trap for the Leathernecks.

The 2nd Battalion of the 1st Marine Regiment came under heavy small-arms and mortar fire as the Communists apparently tried to drive the Leathernecks from astrategic hillside dominating three escape routes to Laos. The Marines replied with artillery.

The latest enemy toll in Operation Hastings which began last Friday, rose to 521 dead by body count and another 554 probably killed. Five North Vietnamese, 125 weapons and large stores of supplies have been captured.

A spokesman said allied casualties continued light, although some Leatherneck units took heavy losses in the early stages of the operation, and that enemy casualties in the latest fighting were not yet known.

Surveyor 1 May Be Told To 'Shut Up'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The last command sent to America's lunar photographer, Surveyor 1, may be "shut up, please."

Scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory said Thursday that the Surveyor 1 mission is over, no more pictures will be taken. But a spokesman said, "Sometime after lunar sunrise at the end of this month we'll see if its receiver is still operating. If it is, we'll take whatever steps are necessary to make sure Surveyor 1 doesn't interfere with the mission of Surveyor 2."

The problem, he said, is that the two spacecraft speak the same language, and Surveyor 1 has no off switch.

A functioning Surveyor could receive signals meant for Surveyor 2, scheduled for launch in September.

In such an event, he said, Surveyor 1 probably will be ordered to turn its antenna away from earth. This would end transmissions from the 260-pound spacecraft that sent back 11,150 pictures.

Scolding by Mother Leads to Tragedy

MEDA, Portugal (AP)—Mrs. Mendes Perdigao, 50, scolded her daughter Georgette, 16, on Thursday for not helping enough on the family farm.

Georgette ran off and jumped into a nearby river. Her mother and sister Emilio, 19, plunged into the torrent to save her.

None could swim. All three drowned.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General William H. Stewart of the Public Health Service has predicted a relatively low incidence of influenza this winter in the United States.

But Stewart said Thursday certain high-risk groups still should be vaccinated after Sept. 1 and before mid-December. He also recommended vaccination for persons over 45 and particularly those over 65.

His recommendations were based on advice from his advisory committee on immunization practices, which reiterated previous recommendations for vaccination of the chronically ill and persons in higher age groups.

Two Sentences Are Imposed By Judge Ammer

Common Pleas Judge William Ammer today sentenced two men to penal institutions.

Gerald Leist, Philadelphia, Pa., was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory for a period of 1-3 years on two non-support charges. In 1964 he was placed on probation by the court.

According to court records, Leist did not comply with the ruling. His probation was lifted and sentence imposed.

Lee Clark Smith, Route 2, Williamsport, was handed a 1-20 Penitentiary on a forgery conviction. He appeared before the court on a bill of information and entered a plea of guilty to the accusation.

Hall-Adkins Installation Scheduled Saturday Night

A formal installation of newly elected officers will be conducted Saturday night at Circleville's Hall-Adkins American Legion Post.

Serving as installing officer will be Dr. Michael J. Chakeres, the Legion's Ohio Department commander. A dinner prior to the installation has been set for 7 p. m. A dance will follow.

C. Richard McAbee will be seated as Hall-Adkins commander. He succeeds Ernil Stonerock at the helm.

Walter Pickel Jr., outgoing adjutant who has served for several years, was named honorary commander during the election of new heads.

Dr. Chakeres, an optometrist at London, was elected Ohio Legion commander earlier this month. He now heads an organization of more than 113,000 veterans in over 700 posts throughout the state.

A Navy Frogman during World War II, Dr. Chakeres was sent to college while in service. He completed his education following his discharge.

He attended the University of North Carolina, Emory University at Atlanta, Ga., Ohio State University and the Illinois College of Optometry.

Chakeres first joined the Legion at Gary, Ind., in 1946 and became a member of Madison Post 105 at London in 1953. He was elected three times as post commander, and between those terms served in the top offices of the Sixth District, which includes seven Central Ohio counties.

Prior to his elevation to the top office, he served as vice commander of the state organization for two years.

Besides his Legion interest, Commander Chakeres is a past president of the London Lions Club and a member of the Greek Orthodox Church in Columbus. His wife, Billie, has served three terms as president of the women's auxiliary of Madison Post 105.

30 U.S. City Halls Are Hit by Walkouts

NEW YORK (AP)—In the first six months of this year, unions hit the nation's city halls—labor's newest target—with at least 30 strikes. More are certain to follow.

Nearly two-thirds of the strikes were by teachers, and the rest involved welfare workers, firemen, policemen, doctors, nurses, hospital attendants, transit workers, and garbage collectors.

Last-minute settlements averted strikes in some cities, and another score of labor disputes are still in contention.

The scramble to organize the eight million employees of the states, counties and municipalities has made it the fastest growing area of union activity. Union membership in the past two years has grown to more than 536,000.

The new militancy has put the unions on collision course with public officials, mindful of near inflexible budgets and the anguished cries of taxpayers. The inexperience of public officials in facing union across the bargaining table also has made for rough going at times.

In Atlanta, Ga., where 500 firemen walked out for three days in early June in a demand for higher wages and a shorter work week, Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. said: "This apparently is going to be a summer of discontent in the union field."

In Lansing, Mich., earlier this week, some 250 unionized city employees went out on strike, accusing the city of unethical labor practices. The workers, employed by the city's civic center, public service, parks and recreation and traffic departments, had won the right last year to be represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

The Lansing workers voted to return to work on Thursday and accept a three-cent-an-hour raise.

City employees in Dayton, Ohio, walked out Tuesday in defiance of a court order prohibiting the strike. Members of the union returned to work Wednesday after the City Council promised to reopen contract negotiations and to ignore state and city laws penalizing public employees who strike.

Some Employees in Duluth, Minn., started a sit-down strike earlier this week in a wage dispute with the City Council. Talks were going on between union and city officials and the state labor conciliator.

Unions representing 96,800 New York City employees, including policemen, firemen and sanitation workers, are bargaining for new contracts. They want wage increases as big as those won by the transit workers in the 12-day bus and subway strike in January.

Union leaders say they are unimpressed by the city's fiscal troubles. There has been talk of a strike by the sanitation workers.

What does a union offer a public employee that civil service doesn't?

"There is a strong feeling on the part of employees that they've got to have something to say about wages, hours and working conditions, and civil service has not given it to them," said Robert Hastings, assistant to the president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, largest of the three national unions in the field.

"In Pennsylvania, in this day and age, "every time there is a change of political parties there is a change in 13,000 jobs," he said.

Just a few years ago union activity by public employees, much less a strike, would have brought an outburst of indignation from politicians. Calvin Coolidge, when he put down the 1916 Boston police strike, said: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anytime, anywhere."

"At one time," said Hastings, "the only way we could appear before a City Council was as private citizens. They wouldn't talk to us as a union. This seems to be changing substantially."

Such laws, however, are not always effective. New York, which has one of the toughest no-strike laws, has had more public service strikes than any other state.

Alabama, North Carolina and Georgia laws forbid employees from joining unions, and Virginia, in a legislative resolution, has declared it against public policy to recognize a union for public employees.

Hall-Adkins Installation Scheduled Saturday Night

A formal installation of newly elected officers will be conducted Saturday night at Circleville's Hall-Adkins American Legion Post.

Serving as installing officer will be Dr. Michael J. Chakeres, the Legion's Ohio Department commander. A dinner prior to the installation has been set for 7 p. m. A dance will follow.

C. Richard McAbee will be seated as Hall-Adkins commander. He succeeds Ernil Stonerock at the helm.

Serving under McAbee will be: James W. Price, first vice commander; Glen Cook, second vice commander; Thomas H. Berger, adjutant; Richard Hall, finance officer; Philip Moore, chaplain; and Austin Bailey, sergeant-at-arms.

ASSUMING executive committee posts will be Roger L.

Smith, Dudley G. Radcliff and Claude L. Robinson, all for one-year terms, and George E.

DR. MICHAEL CHAKERES

Helwage and Harold W. Hill, two years.

Walter Pickel Jr., outgoing adjutant who has served for several years, was named honorary commander during the election of new heads.

Dr. Chakeres, an optometrist at London, was elected Ohio Legion commander earlier this month. He now heads an organization of more than 113,000 veterans in over 700 posts throughout the state.

A Navy Frogman during World War II, Dr. Chakeres was sent to college while in service. He completed his education following his discharge.

He attended the University of North Carolina, Emory University at Atlanta, Ga., Ohio State University and the Illinois College of Optometry.

Chakeres first joined the Legion at Gary, Ind., in 1946 and became a member of Madison Post 105 at London in 1953. He was elected three times as post commander, and between those terms served in the top offices of the Sixth District, which includes seven Central Ohio counties.

Prior to his elevation to the top office, he served as vice commander of the state organization for two years.

Besides his Legion interest, Commander Chakeres is a past president of the London Lions Club and a member of the Greek Orthodox Church in Columbus. His wife, Billie, has served three terms as president of the women's auxiliary of Madison Post 105.

NEW YORK (AP)—In the first six months of this year, unions hit the nation's city halls—labor's newest target—with at least 30 strikes. More are certain to follow.

Nearly two-thirds of the strikes were by teachers, and the rest involved welfare workers, firemen, policemen, doctors, nurses, hospital attendants, transit workers, and garbage collectors.

Last-minute settlements averted strikes in some cities, and another score of labor disputes are still in contention.

The scramble to organize the eight million employees of the states, counties and municipalities has made it the fastest growing area of union activity. Union membership in the past two years has grown to more than 536,000.

The new militancy has put the unions on collision course with public officials, mindful of near inflexible budgets and the anguished cries of taxpayers. The inexperience of public officials in facing union across the bargaining table also has made for rough going at times.

In Atlanta, Ga., where 500 firemen walked out for three days in early June in a demand for higher wages and a shorter work week, Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. said: "This apparently is going to be a summer of discontent in the union field."

In Lansing, Mich., earlier this week, some 250 unionized city employees went out on strike, accusing the city of unethical labor practices. The workers, employed by the city's civic center, public service, parks and recreation and traffic departments, had won the right last year to be represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO.

The Lansing workers voted to return to work on Thursday and accept a three-cent-an-hour raise.

City employees in Dayton, Ohio, walked out Tuesday in defiance of a court order prohibiting the strike. Members of the union returned to work Wednesday after the City Council promised to reopen contract negotiations and to ignore state and city laws penalizing

2 Men Meet Death At Cincy Building Sites

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two construction workers have died this week as the result of accidents involving holes in the ground on construction sites.

Kenneth Darrell Inman, 20, Batavia, died Thursday in a hospital where he had been in critical condition since he was overcome by sewer gas Tuesday. He was working on an Interstate 71 construction site in Cincinnati. Marshall Porterfield, 33, of near Batavia, was killed Tuesday when a ditch caved in at a site near Covington, Ky.

Jet-Propelled Train Test Talk Increased

BRYAN, Ohio (AP) — Work on a 30-mile stretch of track between here and Butler Ind., has heightened speculation that the New York Central is preparing to test-run a jet-propelled train capable of possibly more than 300 miles per hour.

It was reported from Cleveland earlier this week that the train was being built in secret at the Collinwood yards there, but NYC officials have kept their counsel.

Brother's Gun Kills Chardon Area Girl, 10

CHARDON, Ohio (AP) — An accidentally inflicted gunshot wound has claimed the life of Margaret Jenkins, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denver Jenkins of Newbury Township.

Authorities said the girl's 16-year-old brother was shooting at woodchucks Thursday when he fell from a ladder and his gun went off, the bullet striking his sister below the ear.

30 U.S. City Halls Are Hit by Walkouts

public employees who strike. Some Employees in Duluth, Minn., started a sit-down strike earlier this week in a wage dispute with the City Council. Talks were going on between union and city officials and the state labor conciliator.

Unions representing 96,800 New York City employees, including policemen, firemen and sanitation workers, are bargaining for new contracts. They want wage increases as big as those won by the transit workers in the 12-day bus and subway strike in January.

Union leaders say they are unimpressed by the city's fiscal troubles. There has been talk of a strike by the sanitation workers.

What does a union offer a public employee that civil service doesn't? "There is a strong feeling on the part of employees that they've got to have something to say about wages, hours and working conditions, and civil service has not given it to them," said Robert Hastings, assistant to the president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, largest of the three national unions in the field. "In Pennsylvania, in this day and age, "every time there is a change of political parties there is a change in 13,000 jobs," he said.

Just a few years ago union activity by public employees, much less a strike, would have brought an outburst of indignation from politicians. Calvin Coolidge, when he put down the 1916 Boston police strike, said: "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anytime, anywhere." "At one time," said Hastings, "the only way we could appear before a City Council was as private citizens. They wouldn't talk to us as a union. This seems to be changing substantially."

Sixteen states prohibit public employees from striking—Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon, Wisconsin, Georgia, Hawaii, Nebraska, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia.

Alabama, North Carolina and Georgia laws forbid employees from joining unions, and Virginia, in a legislative resolution, has declared it against public policy to recognize a union for public employees.

Such laws, however, are not always effective. New York, which has one of the toughest no-strike laws, has had more public service strikes than any other state.

Advantages of Middle Age

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — Why does anyone want to be young? Youth is such a nuisance. It is fortunate that only young people have youth, as only they have the strength to bear up under its burdens.

There is a lot of hypocrisy in today's widespread worship of youth.

"You're in the best time of life," older people tell younger people.

And the young people believe it. They don't realize they're being kidded by experts.

People don't appreciate how wonderful life can really be until they realize that middle age, far from being a penalty, has matchless benefits of its own. Why, it enables a man to get away with practically anything except murder.

What are some of the practical advantages of being middle-aged? Well, for example:

Your kids are either well-grown or already flown, and if you and your wife want to go out for the evening you don't have to fawn at the whims of a teen-age babysitter.

You can see your way clear to actually owning your own home. The mortgage on it is probably more than half paid.

You don't have to enlist in the wars or play on the office softball team.

After giving you your 25-year pin the boss no longer calls you on the carpet so often, as he no longer has any particular desire to frighten you. He gets more of a thrill out of scaring the young whippersnappers.

You adopt a forgiving attitude toward your enemies because it takes too much energy to go on hating them.

Nothing ages anyone more than the death of his dreams. As you have survived the interment of most of your own foolish dreams, this vanity is behind you.

It no longer galls you so much to make necessary compromises in your daily living. You adjust to the fact that it is a physical impossibility for you to reform the whole world. You decide to let mankind stew in its own juices — and feel better for this decision.

You meet the girl you might have married, and are glad you didn't. The one you did marry may not be a beauty any more, but she's got her points. For one thing, no other girl her age can dish up a tastier casserole. Or clean snow off the driveway quicker.

Best of all, time has taught you and everyone else to accept your limitations. They don't expect you to be anyone else, or do more than you can. And that's a blessed relief.

These are the advantages of middle age. Who'd trade such known and lasting joys for the pallid, passing, panicky pleasures of the snobbish young?

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Much of the talk these days is about the economy turning down. But most of the key statistics show the economy is still climbing to new highs.

What is happening is that while the economy was booming ahead at a rapid rate in the first three months of the year, it is now advancing at a more normal pace and responding in a more healthy fashion to seasonal factors. With few exceptions, the key segments in the economy haven't turned down or even leveled off.

And the exceptions, such as auto sales, housing starts and new orders for durable goods, have exceptional circumstances of their own.

Car sales are lower at the moment than a year ago when they were at a record high. But no one can be sure whether that means that consumers are tightening up on spending or are influenced by all the talk about auto safety.

Although Americans were buying fewer cars in April, May and June, total consumer spending for that period grew by $3.3 billion to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $458.9 billion. You can view this with alarm because the gain was less than the $10.4 billion advance in the first quarter of the year, or you can hail the more normal rate of advance and the new high it set.

Housing starts have had periodic sinking spells for two years now. At the moment a new uncertainty — tight money in the mortgage fund field — is complicating the picture. And tight money stems from the inflationary boom of the first three months of 1966 — both because of official efforts to tighten credit and of still booming demand for loans in many fields.

New factory orders for durable goods — watched as a guide to future output — in June came to a seasonally adjusted $24.1 billion. This was $100 million below the May and April totals. But the June orders were $2.8 billion higher than a year ago. And a "large increase in bookings for defense products" is reported by the Commerce likely to continue to gain that on drop.

The backlog of durable goods orders actually rose by $1.2 billion to a total of $70.7 billion at the end of June, or $13.2 billion more than a year ago. Factories apparently still have lots of orders to keep them busy.

Worriers about the economy like to point to a slowdown in the advance of the Gross National Product. Actually, this measure of the total output of goods and services is still rising. In the second quarter it hit a new high, a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $732 billion.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE NOT-TOO-AMBITIOUS son of a wealthy industrialist pleaded a virus infection one day, and didn't show up for work. His father decided to pay him a surprise visit at lunch time, and collided with a very beautiful young lady sneaking out of the sick room. The son took a deep breath at sight of his beloved parent and murmured, "The fever seems to have left me." "Right you are," agreed the father. "I'm taking it out to dinner this evening."

At a Saturday morning inspection in a camp of new draftees, a finicky lieutenant discovered that one perspiring young lad's laundry bag was full of books. "Outrageous," sputtered the lieutenant. "What excuse can you have for stuffing books into your laundry bag?" The draftee explained meekly, "They're very dirty books, sir."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

We live in an area where insects, mosquitoes and wasps thrive right up to the fall. How can they be discouraged from biting? What is the first aid treatment for severe bites?

Mrs. A.S., West Virginia

Dear Mrs. S.: The best way to discourage insects from biting is to avoid unnecessary exposure to them. When this is not possible some precautions can be taken.

It is an accepted fact that mosquitoes are attracted to people who wear perfumes and fragrant after shave lotions. They seem to be drawn to highly active people who perspire profusely.

A recent study performed with clothes of varying colors showed that mosquitoes had a greater affinity for dark clothing. They seemed to favor black, dark hues and dark reds, rather than whites, yellows and green colors.

There are many insect repellents which, when applied to the skin, are very effective in preventing the distressing annoyance of these bites.

Community control under the supervision of the local Board of Health can eliminate stagnant ponds, pools of water and other breeding grounds commonly overlooked. The most common "biting offender" in the mosquito family is the culex pipiens. It is interesting that the female mosquito is the one which bites humans.

Some insect stings can be serious, especially to those who, by past experience, are highly sensitive to the toxins. Severe reactions of hives, swelling, pain and itching and asthma demand immediate attention.

The Thayer Hospital in Waterville, Maine, issued the following valuable list of first aid suggestions for very severe insect stings.

1) An injection of adrenalin into the site of the sting and another injection in another part of the body. This site should be

China Can Be Fragmented

By John Chamberlain

Cumbersome though its machinery of political succession may be, the Soviet Union has managed to survive the deaths of Lenin and Stalin and the superannuation of Nikita Khrushchev. And simply because a Communist organization in Russia has managed to live through several succession crises over the period of a rough half-century, it is assumed that the pattern will be repeated for Communist nations elsewhere in the world. Specifically, it is assumed that developments in Red China must follow the historical course established by Moscow. But there are many important sociological and psychological differences between the two great Marxist powers, and there is no reason to believe that what is traditional for one must necessarily become traditional for the other.

A veteran Taiwan diplomat, with a 35-year record of unsavable objectivity, inferential points out in private correspondence that political control in Soviet Russia has always come to rest in the hands of party civilians. Lenin, Stalin, Malenkov, Khrushchev, Kosygin and Brezhnev all rose through the Communist political hierarchy to control the Red Army along with the police and propaganda apparatuses. It is true that no pure intellectual has ever ruled Communist Russia, but every Russian Leager has been an intellectual of sorts.

In the case of Red China, a deviation from this sort of thing seems to be shaping up. Not too long ago it looked as though Liu Shao-chi, the chairman of the Peking Communist regime, would be Mao Tse-tung's successor. But Liu has grown old along with Mao. Meanwhile, the star of Lin Piao, the militarist who represents the Chinese Red Army, has been rising. Lin Piao has recovered his health since the Koreana War, and is now in tireless pursuit of the power that may enable him to seize the baton from the clutch of a dying Mao.

The veteran Taiwan diplomat says the current purge of the intellectuals in Red China is a noisy sideshow in a land where, far more than in bureaucratized Soviet Russia, political power "issues from the barrel of a gun." (The quotation about political power, of course, comes from Mao Tse-tung.) Lin Piao, according to my informant, will in all probability be able to eliminate both the intellectuals and his civilian opponents, including Liu Shao-chi and Chou En-lai. But when the elimination of the intellectuals and the civilians has been completed, what then?

It is at this point that Chinese tradition, which is utterly different from the tradition of Russia, could provoke a fork in the tail of history. Communism in Soviet Russia took over all the centralizing tendencies of the Romanoffs. But China has never had a centralist tradition. The old emperors ruled by dispatching their mandarin lieutenants to the various provinces, and the ordinary pattern was for the mandarin court representative to maintain a loose rein on a regional war lord. But the war lord often had the final say. Chiang Kai-shek tried valiantly to bring an end to the pattern of war lordism, but he was defeated in 1948 by Mao Tse-tung, who had, in effect, maintained himself as a Communist war lord in north west China throughout the period of the Japanese war.

The question, as the veteran Taiwan diplomat sees it, is whether Lin Piao can, in victory, continue to command the allegiance of all or most of his armed forces. If he cannot, a confusing situation might follow, with war lordism re-emerging in a return to the classical Chinese pattern.

The big difference between a new and an older war lordism would derive from the presence, in Taiwan, of a large modern army of 600,000 well trained troops. If a disintegration of Communist power should occur on the Chinese mainland because of the rise of separate militarisms, the Taiwan army would be a make-weight worth courting by, say, a war lord in Canton.

This is speculation as it appears in the Veteran Taiwan diplomat's private correspondence. It was not intended as anything official, nor was it directed to anyone in power in the U.S. government. However, the possibility that the control of the Chinese on the mainland can be fissured and fractured during the course of the looming succession crisis should be a Number One consideration with Lyndon Johnson in the White House and with the CIA. Lenin and Stalin had the centralizing tradition of the Czars behind them; Mao Tse-tung has only a history of striving against centrifugal forces which may, with his passing, resume their sway.

It no longer galls you so much to make necessary compromises in your daily living. You adjust to the fact that it is a physical impossibility for you to reform the whole world. You decide to let mankind stew in its own juices — and feel better for this decision.

You meet the girl you might have married, and are glad you didn't. The one you did marry may not be a beauty any more, but she's got her points. For one thing, no other girl her age can dish up a tastier casserole. Or clean snow off the driveway quicker.

Best of all, time has taught you and everyone else to accept your limitations. They don't expect you to be anyone else, or do more than you can. And that's a blessed relief.

These are the advantages of middle age. Who'd trade such known and lasting joys for the pallid, passing, panicky pleasures of the snobbish young?

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—Much of the talk these days is about the economy turning down. But most of the key statistics show the economy is still climbing to new heights.

What is happening is that while the economy was booming ahead at a rapid rate in the first three months of the year, it is now advancing at a more normal pace and responding in a more healthy fashion to seasonal factors. With few exceptions, the key segments in the economy haven't turned down or even leveled off.

And the exceptions, such as auto sales, housing starts and new orders for durable goods, have exceptional circumstances of their own.

Car sales are lower at the moment than a year ago when they were at a record high. But no one can be sure whether that means that consumers are tightening up on spending or are influenced by all the talk about auto safety.

Although Americans were buying fewer cars in April, May and June, total consumer spending for that period grew by $3.3 billion to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $458.9 billion. You can view this with alarm because the gain was less than the $10.4 billion advance in the first quarter of the year, or you can hail the more normal rate of advance and the new high it set.

Housing starts have had periodic sinking spells for two years now. At the moment a new uncertainty — tight money in the mortgage fund field — is complicating the picture. And tight money stems from the inflationary boom of the first three months of 1966 — both because of official efforts to tighten credit and of still booming demand for loans in many fields.

New factory orders for durable goods — watched as a guide to future output — in June came to a seasonally adjusted $24.1 billion. This was $100 million below the May and April totals. But the June orders were $2.8 billion higher than a year ago. And a "large increase in bookings for defense products" is reported by the Commerce likely to continue to gain that on drop.

The backlog of durable goods orders actually rose by $1.2 billion to a total of $70.7 billion at the end of June, or $13.2 billion more than a year ago. Factories apparently still have lots of orders to keep them busy.

Worriers about the economy like to point to a slowdown in the advance of the Gross National Product. Actually, this measure of the total output of goods and services is still rising. In the second quarter it hit a new high, a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $732 billion.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

THE NOT-TOO-AMBITIOUS son of a wealthy industrialist pleaded a virus infection one day, and didn't show up for work. His father decided to pay him a surprise visit at lunch time, and collided with a very beautiful young lady sneaking out of the sick room. The son took a deep breath at sight of his beloved parent and murmured, "The fever seems to have left me." "Right you are," agreed the father. "I'm taking it out to dinner this evening."

At a Saturday morning inspection in a camp of new draftees, a finicky lieutenant discovered that one perspiring young lad's laundry bag was full of books. "Outrageous," sputtered the looter. "What excuse can you have for stuffing books into your laundry bag?" The draftee explained meekly, "They're very dirty books, sir."

Minor crisis in British history: when King George IV met his future bride, Princess Caroline of Brunswick, for the first time, he kissed her hand gallantly, then recoiled and whispered hoarsely to his attendant, "For God's sake, Henry, fetch me a glass of brandy!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

We live in an area where insects, mosquitoes and wasps thrive right up to the fall. How can they be discouraged from biting? What is the first aid treatment for severe bites?

Mrs. A.S., West Virginia

Dear Mrs. S.: The best way to discourage insects from biting is to avoid unnecessary exposure to them. When this is not possible some precautions can be taken.

It is an accepted fact that mosquitoes are attracted to people who wear perfumes and fragrant after shave lotions. They seem to be drawn to highly active people who perspire profusely.

A recent study performed with clothes of varying colors showed that mosquitoes had a greater affinity for dark clothing. They seemed to favor black, dark hues and dark reds, rather than whites, yellows and green colors.

There are many insect repellents which, when applied to the skin, are very effective in preventing the distressing annoyance of these bites.

Community control under the supervision of the local Board of Health can eliminate stagnant ponds, pools of water and other breeding grounds commonly overlooked. The most common "biting offender" in the mosquito family is the culex pipiens. It is interesting that the female mosquito is the one which bites humans.

Some insect stings can be serious, especially to those who, by past experience, are highly sensitive to the toxins. Severe reactions of hives, swelling, pain and itching and asthma demand immediate attention.

The Thayer Hospital in Waterville Maine, issued the following valuable list of first aid suggestions for very severe insect stings.

1) An injection of adrenalin into the site of the sting and another injection in another part of the body. This site should be massaged to hasten the absorption. The amount of adrenalin should, of course, be controlled by a physician.

2) If adrenalin is not available a pill, Iuprel, kept beneath the tongue should be absorbed, not sucked or chewed. This pill can be repeated once.

3) put a tourniquet above the site of the sting if it is on an arm or leg.

4) Apply an ice pack to the site of the sting.

5) Antihistamines and cortisone by mouth or injection, under the direction of a doctor, are very effective.

6) Go to a hospital or doctors office whenever possible.

7) It is important to identify the insect for more effective treatment.

Vaccines and desensitization techniques can be used for individuals who are known to be particularly sensitive to the bite of insects.

Pierced ears need scrupulous cleanliness to avoid infections.

China Can Be Fragmented

By John Chamberlain

Cumbersome though its machinery of political succession may be, the Soviet Union has managed to survive the deaths of Lenin and Stalin and the superannuation of Nikita Khrushchev. And simply because a Communist organization in Russia has managed to live through several succession crises over the period of a rough half-century, it is assumed that the pattern will be repeated for Communist nations elsewhere in the world. Specifically, it is assumed that developments in Red China must follow the historical course established by Moscow. But there are many important sociological and psychological differences between the two great Marxist powers, and there is no reason to believe that what is traditional for one must necessarily become traditional for the other.

A veteran Taiwan diplomat, with a 35-year record of unsailable objectivity, inferential points out in private correspondence that political control in Soviet Russia has always come to rest in the hands of party civilians. Lenin, Stalin, Malenkov, Khrushchev, Kosygin and Brezhnev all rose through the Communist political hierarchy to control the Red Army along with the police and propaganda apparatuses. It is true that no pure intellectual has ever ruled Communist Russia, but every Russian Leager has been an intellectual of sorts.

In the case of Red China, a deviation from this sort of thing seems to be shaping up. Not too long ago it looked as though Liu Shao-chi, the chairman of the Peking Communist regime, would be Mao Tse-tung's successor. But Liu has grown old along with Mao. Meanwhile, the star of Lin Piao, the militarist who represents the Chinese Red Army, has been rising. Lin Piao has recovered his health since the Koreana War, and is now in tireless pursuit of the power that may enable him to seize the baton from the clutch of a dying Mao.

The veteran Taiwan diplomat says the current purge of the intellectuals in Red China is a noisy sideshow in a land where, far more than in bureaucratized Soviet Russia, political power "issues from the barrel of a gun." (The quotation about a political power, of course, comes from Mao Tse-tung.) Lin Piao, according to my informant, will in all probability be able to eliminate both the intellectuals and his civilian opponents, including Liu Shao-chi and Chou En-lai. But when the elimination of the intellectuals and the civilians has been completed, what then?

It is at this point that Chinese tradition, which is utterly different from the tradition of Russia, could provoke a fork in the tail of history. Communism in Soviet Russia took over all the centralizing tendencies of the Romanoffs. But China has never had a centralist tradition. The old emperors ruled by deputizing their mandarin lieutenants to the various provinces, and the ordinary pattern was the elimination of the mandarin court representative to maintain a loose rein on a regional war lord. But the war lord often had the final say. Chiang Kai-shek tried valiantly to bring an end to the pattern of war lordism, but he was defeated in 1948 by Mao Tse-tung, who had, in effect, maintained himself as a Communist war lord in north west China throughout the period of the Japanese war.

The question, as the veteran Taiwan diplomat sees it, is whether Lin Piao can, in victory, continue to command the allegiance of all or most of his armed forces. If he cannot, a confusing situation might follow, with war lordism re-emerging in a return to the classical Chinese pattern.

The big difference between a new and an older war lordism would derive from the presence, in Taiwan, of a large modern army of 600,000 well trained troops. If a disintegration of Communist power should occur on the Chinese mainland because of the rise of separate militarisms, the Taiwan army would be a make-weight worth courting by, say, a war lord in Canton.

This is speculation as it appears in the Veteran Taiwan diplomat's private correspondence. It was not intended as anything official, nor was it directed to anyone in power in the U.S. government. However, the possibility that the control of the Chinese on the mainland can be fissured and fractured during the course of the looming succession crisis should be a Number One consideration with Lyndon Johnson in the White House and with the CIA. Lenin and Stalin had the centralizing tradition of the Czars behind them; Mao Tse-tung has only a history of striving against centrifugal forces which may, with his passing, resume their sway.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Divorcee Has Nothing to Hide

DEAR ABBY: I have an exceptionally beautiful 24-year-old niece who has recently been divorced. (No children.) She lived a long way from here and I am sure no one in this town knows that she was ever married. In view of the fact that her marriage lasted only a short time, and the divorce was no fault of hers, do you think it is necessary for me to tell people that she is a divorcee?

Why spoil her chances? She wants to forget the past and start life anew. She is coming to visit me soon and I know several very nice young men who could be very much interested in her.

HER AUNT
DEAR AUNT: Yes, tell them. Unless the young lady is completely devoid of integrity, when one of those "nice young men" asks her, how come a nice girl like you isn't married, she will most certainly reply, "I was."

DEAR ABBY: For my high school graduation I got several of those little clutch purses so I took a very pretty white beaded one back to the store for either a refund or an exchange. They looked at it and said that purse didn't come from their store, which kind of shocked me because it was all nicely wrapped in a box with their name on it.

I was sort of embarrassed. Should I call the lady who gave it to me and ask her where she got it? I really have no use for it.

OVER-CLUTCHED
DEAR OVER-CLUTCHED: No, that's probably how SHE got it. Don't embarrass her.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 17 and she is going with a very nice young man her age. They are much too young for marriage and they know it, but this boy has started calling me "mom."

He is a dear, sweet, well-mannered Christian lad and I like him very much. I never had a son and I kind of like being called mom by him. My daughter told me he lost his own mother when he was a baby and it makes him happy to call me mom.

Well, a neighbor was visiting me while he was here one day and she heard him calling me mom. Later she said it sounded terrible, and he should call me Mrs. — and nothing but! I will abide by your advice.

MOM
DEAR MOM: Let the boy call you mom.

Wall Washing Made Simple

By ELEANOR ROSS
There is a time when walls don't actually call for a paint job but do need a good cleaning.

As it is with so many other jobs, washing paint is a compromise. The cleaning solution must be effective enough to remove the dirt or stain, but not so strong that it removes the paint — something we're told that frequently happens. It is on a par with the laundry detergents that must be strong enough to get clothes clean but not so strong that they dissolve the fabric.

Fundamentally, washing a wall is a simple enough operation. Use a cleaning solution, apply it with a brush or sponge, rub it enough to loosen the dirt then wash it off with clean water.

The cleaning solution should be a detergent of some kind in water. The strength of the solution is determined by the kind of detergent, the amount used, and the temperature of the water. The more detergent and the hotter the water, the more effective is the cleaning solution, and the more likely it is to attract the paint.

Soap is a mild detergent, and so it is unlikely to trouble the paint, but then it may not remove the stains.

Synthetic detergents are stronger and usually more effective. Trisodium phosphate and sodium silicate, sold under a variety of brand or trade names, are powerful. However if they are applied in a strong solution, which is very hot, they are effective removers all right, but they can take the paint off along with the dirt.

Paint thinners will remove many stubborn stains but should be used judiciously since they soften and may easily dissolve the paint.

As a general precaution, it is well to try any solution to a small area of the wall first, and make sure that the paint film is not attacked. If it is, either dilute the solution or allow it to cool.

Some wives like to start on the wall from the top down so that any run-down does not streak walls that have already been washed.

Others, especially those who have husbands who washed airplanes in the armed services, will start from the bottom and work their way up, figuring it is easier to remove streaks from walls that have already been cleaned than it is to try to get rid of those that have "etched" their way through grease and dirt.

37th Division Winding Up Training Stint

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Ohio's 37th Infantry Division wrapped up two weeks of summer field training today and prepared for the long trip back to 66 home stations Saturday.

The division's 98 units moved in from bivouac areas in the field Thursday night and this morning and began turning this camp back to Michigan authorities. The Ohio National Guard division is the last major unit to train here this summer.

Present plans call for all units to move directly to home stations, though rumors were rampant here about a possible conversion from federal to state duty for some units because of the Cleveland riots.

It was disclosed that north-east Ohio units underwent additional unscheduled riot training the past few days, but division officials emphasized they were doubtful any division units would be activated unless the situation worsened.

Views on Television — Radio

By ALLEN LUDDEN (For Cynthia Lowry)
EDITOR'S NOTE — It takes a strong, secure, well-adjusted fellow to marry a well-known woman in show business. Allen Ludden did just that and here tells, without a whimper, what it's like to be — but only occasionally — hailed as Mr. Betty White. And Betty wasn't sure he should write this column.

NEW YORK (AP) — Among the many notable things that have happened to me since the advent of a little television game called Password has been the fact that I am called so many different things. You may take that any way you wish, but what I mean is that people call me different names.

Because they see me on the tube in the afternoon, they associate me with my electronic neighbor Linkletter and I'm hailed as "Art". So, I answer.

Because I emcee a game show, they call me "Bud," as in Collyer.

Because I wear glasses and belong to that venerable group known as television hosts, I get "Bill" for Bill Cullen, I guess.

But the one I enjoy the most is "Hey, there's the guy who married Betty White!" It's been three years now since Betty and I married and I've become something of an authority on Betty White fans.

Let me make it clear at the outset that I have nothing but the heartiest respect for these people. Obviously I respect their taste. I married the girl! Most of them look upon me as a Johnny-come-lately. They've known her much longer than I have.

There is a very large group who remember Betty from the "Al Jarvis Days". She was doing a 5½-hour daily local show in Los Angeles. There weren't many television sets to begin with (I kid Betty about being a star of the silent TV) and it was a local show. Yet these people turn up all over the country.

When we married we had 9,000 cards and at least 6,000 of them mentioned Al Jarvis.

They usually went on to mention "Life with Elizabeth," too, because off of her Al Jarvis friends followed on to that series. They were joined by armies of new and vigilantly faithful followers.

A lot of them must have been about 10 at the time, but they loved "Life with Elizabeth." I've read some of the scripts just lately, and the reason those shows were so popular is that they were very, very funny.

Betty is constantly amazed to have teen-agers today come up to her to tell her that her's was their favorite show when they were kids.

Then there are the hard-core fans or, even better, friends, who have known Betty through "Life with Elizabeth", "Date with the Angels", and "The Betty White Show", which was her daytime NBC network show.

These are the people from all over the country who know about her love of animals, her jokes, her favorite songs, her wide streak of sentimentality, her curiosity.

They follow Betty's every move. They write regularly. Their generosity is embarrassing. But their affection is so genuine and their intentions are so right, one could only be touched by their gestures.

I think I can safely say that most of the hard-core fans are glad that Betty and I married. At the time of our marriage in fact, many wrote to say that they had picked me out for her.

That was not true of them all. There was another group that came in later, a nighttime group, the "Jack Paar" group. Not all of them were Ludden-orientated. As a matter of fact, it got a bit sticky on several occasions, but time has a way of taking care of those things.

Now when I hear somebody yell, "Hey, there's the guy who married Betty White!" I just smile, keep moving and don't even think about ducking.

7,000 Phone Poles Lost During Fire

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—About half-million dollars' damage, mostly to some 7,000 stacked telephone poles that burned like giant matchsticks, resulted from a fire here that didn't miss the Kenyon College airport hanger and a grain elevator by much.

Officials theorized that the fire Thursday, at the Joslyn Manufacturing Co., may have started in a diesel-operated crane.

The big machine, valued at more than $50,000 was destroyed along with Joslyn's stock of wooden poles. Soaked with creosote, the poles burned on into the night after igniting in the afternoon.

The firm is a major supplier of railroad ties, which were saved.

Luci, Pat Plan To Live In 'Dream House' in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent will attend the University of Texas after their Aug. 6 wedding and live in a rented "dream house" in Austin, Tex.

They think they can get a little more privacy there, the President's daughter told a news conference shared with her mother in the White House state dining room Monday.

She said she was experiencing the feelings of all brides — "I am very excited, a little anxious and a little nervous."

Luci, 19, spoke of her future plans for taking up housekeeping with Nugent, 23, in a small one story brick duplex house in a "nice neighborhood" where she envisioned doing her own cooking and cleaning and having to keep a strict eye on the budget.

When asked whether she expected Nugent to wash and dry dishes, Luci declared "certainly not." But, she added, "If he wanted to help I don't think I would refuse."

Nugent has a job with an educational consulting firm in Washington. But from what Luci said he will not hold any job immediately after their marriage.

"He has pretty much saved up, because we haven't been going places, and we feel as though we can make it with what we both have right now," Luci explained.

Nugent will work toward his master's degree in business administration. Luci said she will continue undergraduate studies but will not resume her nursing studies. She said she'd like to take typing and shorthand.

DEAR OVER-CLUTCHED: No. That's probably how SHE got it. Don't embarrass her.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 17 and she is going with a very nice young man her age. They are much too young for marriage and they know it, but this boy has started calling me "mom."

He is a dear, sweet, well-mannered Christian lad and I like him very much. I never had a son and I kind of like being called mom by him. My daughter told me he lost his own mother when he was a baby and it makes him happy to call me mom.

Well, a neighbor was visiting me while he was here one day and she heard him calling me mom. Later she said it sounded terrible, and he should call me Mrs. — and nothing but! I will abide by your advice.

MOM
DEAR MOM: Let the boy call you mom.

Mrs. Dresbach Hostess for DAR Committee

Mrs. Judd H. Dresbach, Route 1, Ashville, regent of Pickaway Plains Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution, was hostess Wednesday for the executive committee of the chapter at a luncheon and business session.

Plans were made for various procedures and aids that would enrich the many policies and projects of the local chapter as well as the state and national societies.

Those present were Mrs. Daniel, chaplain. Mrs. Stanley Bowers, recording secretary; Mrs. Harold Bowers, treasurer; Mrs. R. R. Bales, Registrar; Mrs. Leora Sayre, historian; Mrs. Russell McDill, librarian; Mrs. Martin Cromley, general chairman for the September District Session and chairman of Advancement on American Music.

37th Division Winding Up Training Stint

CAMP GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Ohio's 37th Infantry Division wrapped up two weeks of summer field training today and prepared for the long trip back to 66 home stations Saturday.

The division's 98 units moved in from bivouac areas in the field Thursday night and this morning and began turning this camp back to Michigan authorities. The Ohio National Guard division is the last major unit to train here this summer.

Present plans call for all units to move directly to home stations, though rumors were rampant here about a possible conversion from federal to state duty for some units because of the Cleveland riots.

It was disclosed that northeast Ohio units underwent additional unscheduled riot training the past few days, but division officials emphasized they were doubtful any division units would be activated unless the situation worsened.

Views on Television — Radio

By ALLEN LUDDEN
(For Cynthia Lowry)
EDITOR'S NOTE — It takes a strong, secure, well-adjusted fellow to marry a well-known woman in show business. Allen Ludden did just that and here tells, without a whimper, what it's like to be — but only occasionally — hailed as Mr. Betty White. And Betty wasn't sure he should write this column.

NEW YORK AP) — Among the many notable things that have happened to me since the advent of a little television game called Password has been the fact that I am called so many different things. You may take that any way you wish, but what I mean is that people call me different names.

Because they see me on the tube in the afternoon, they associate me with my electronic neighbor Linkletter and I'm hailed as "Art". So, I answer. Because I emcee a game show, they call me "Bud," as in Collyer.

Because I wear glasses and belong to that venerable group known as television hosts, I get "Bill" for Bill Cullen, I guess. But the one I enjoy the most is "Hey, there's the guy who married Betty White!" It's been three years now since Betty and I married and I've become something of an authority on Betty White fans.

Let me make it clear at the outset that I have nothing but the heartiest respect for these people. Obviously I respect their taste. I married the girl! Most of them look upon me as a Johnny-come-lately. They've known her much longer than I have.

There is a very large group who remember Betty from the "Al Jarvis Days". She was doing a 5½-hour daily local show in Los Angeles. There weren't many television sets to begin with (I kid Betty about being a star of the silent TV) and it was a local show. Yet these people turn up all over the country.

When we married we had 9,000 cards and at least 6,000 of them mentioned Al Jarvis.

They usually went on to mention "Life with Elizabeth," too, because off of her Al Jarvis friends followed on to that series. They were joined by armies of new and vigilantly faithful followers.

A lot of them must have been about 10 at the time, but they loved "Life with Elizabeth." I've read some of the scripts just lately, and the reason those shows were so popular is that they were very, very funny.

Betty is constantly amazed to have teen-agers today come up to her to tell her that her's was their favorite show when they were kids.

Then there are the hard-core fans or, even better, friends, who have known Betty through "Life with Elizabeth", "Date with the Angels", and "The Betty White Show", which was her daytime NBC network show.

These are the people from all over the country who know about her love of animals, her jokes, her favorite songs, her wide streak of sentimentality, her curiosity.

They follow Betty's every move. They write regularly. Their generosity is embarrassing. But their affection is so genuine and their intentions are so right, one could only be touched by their gestures.

I think I can safely say that most of the hard-core fans are glad that Betty and I married. At the time of our marriage in fact, many wrote to say that they had picked me out for her.

That was not true of them all. There was another group that came in later, a nighttime group, the "Jack Paar" group. Not all of them were Ludden-oriented. As a matter of fact, it got a bit sticky on several occasions, but time has a way of taking care of those things.

Now when I hear somebody yell, "Hey, there's the guy who married Betty White!" I just smile, keep moving and don't even think about ducking.

7,000 Phone Poles Lost During Fire

GAMBIER, Ohio (AP)—About half-million dollars' damage, mostly to some 7,000 stacked telephone poles that burned like giant matchsticks, resulted from a fire here that didn't miss the Kenyon College airport hanger and a grain elevator by much.

Officials theorized that the fire Thursday, at the Joslyn Manufacturing Co., may have started in a diesel-operated crane.

The big machine, valued at more than $50,000 was destroyed along with Joslyn's stock of wooden poles. Soaked with creosote, the poles burned on into the night after igniting in the afternoon.

The firm is a major supplier of railroad ties, which were saved. Smoke billowed high as the

Luci, Pat Plan To Live In 'Dream House' in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci Johnson and Patrick J. Nugent will attend the University of Texas after their Aug. 6 wedding and live in a rented "dream house" in Austin, Tex. They think they can get a little more privacy there, the President's daughter told a news conference shared with her mother in the White House state dining room Monday.

She said she was experiencing the feelings of all brides — "I am very excited, a little anxious and a little nervous."

Luci, 19, spoke of her future plans for taking up housekeeping with Nugent, 23, in a small one story brick duplex house in a "nice neighborhood" where she envisioned doing her own cooking and cleaning and having to keep a strict eye on the budget.

When asked whether she expected Nugent to wash and dry dishes, Luci declared "certainly not." But, she added, "If he wanted to help I don't think I would refuse."

Nugent has a job with an educational consulting firm in Washington. But from what Luci said he will not hold any job immediately after their marriage.

"He has pretty much saved up, because we haven't been going places, and we feel as though we can make it with what we both have right now," Luci explained.

Nugent will work toward his master's degree in business administration. Luci said she will continue undergraduate studies but will not resume her nursing studies. She said she'd like to take typing and shorthand.

flames consumed the yard, a Joslyn building and a nearby barn. Firemen from four departments kept it from the company's main building and the adjacent Gambier Cooperative Elevator and Kenyo airport and athletic field.

No one was injured.

"which my father considers are the two greatest virtues for a woman to have."

Luci said the house, for which they'll buy furniture after their honeymoon, has a living room, two bedrooms, "none of them very large but they suit our needs", a little dinette, copper-colored kitchen with a copper stove, but no "icebox" yet.

The duplex — or two units — means the young Nugents will have very close neighbors. When it was suggested they might be the Secret Service, required by law to protect the President's daughter, Luci said "you'd have to ask them." The Secret Service referred the query to the First Lady's press office, where it was noted that giving out such information "defeats the purpose of the Secret Service."

Mrs. Johnson said she wanted the wedding day to be "something beautiful" for Luci to remember and to share with family and close friends.

FASHIONED

Now it's just an antique, a relic of a bygone era. Formerly it served a practical purpose, a special need. Today, Grandfather's horseless carriage is completely outmoded.

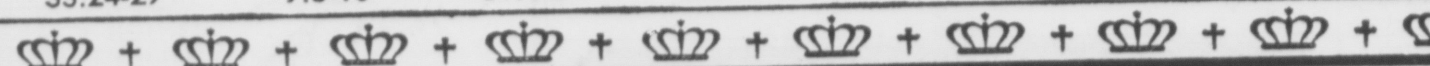

Some philosophies are also out of date. New ideas grip our minds and challenge the intellect. We would not want a "horse and buggy" philosophy in this modern world of growth and change.

Some things do not change, for they are eternal. For example, man's soul and his need of God. No modern invention can ever make God and the Church obsolete. Society is different today than it was in Grandfather's day, but man's spiritual needs are the same.

Discover the value of the timeless in the midst of time. Worship God in your church this week and find the eternal truth which spans the ages.

Sincerity Before God

THOUGHTS AND ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER THAN WORDS

Scripture—Exodus 20:7; Matthew 5:33-37; Mark 7:5-9; Titus 1:16.

By R. H. RAMSEY
THIRD of the Ten Commandments is the law against blasphemy, heart and core of which is the prohibition that we shall not take the name of God in vain.
God's power, commandments, and especially His name and the name of His Son, are not to be taken lightly. Profession of belief in, and worship of the one true God involves us in keeping His name and the things for which He stands sacred and revered.
Aware of their complete dependence upon God, our ancestors knew the importance of keeping His name and His law sacred. Abuse of God's name was more than offensive to the ear, it was offensive to God.
Though modern man has progressed far beyond the wildest suppositions of the ancients scientifically, culturally, intellectually and socially, he lags far behind them spiritually. Obsessed by possessions and status, he attributes his state of well-being to his own sweat, toil and intelligence, substituting self for God and trying to replace God's power with his own. He takes liberties with the things held most sacred by his forefathers and attempts to demonstrate his independence of his Creator through irreverent use of or profaning His name.

God's name is holy and man is to revere it above all other names. When this law is broken, man profanes what God Himself has declared sacred. Profane usage of the name of God is more than a bad habit. It is a sin against the holiness of God.
In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus sought to give men a more profound interpretation of the moral law regarding the requirements of this third commandment. Here, our Lord is not referring to oaths as inherently and necessarily wrong, for there are occasions—such as in a court of law—when the use of an oath is justified. He refers to men who use profanity or handle truth carelessly.
Jesus insisted upon such a regard for truth and sincerity of speech that the presence or absence of an oath would make no difference. To feel that we are more bound by an oath than we are more bound by an oath than als of righteousness and yet, in their hearts, devoid of the true righteousness God demands.

It is easy to point the finger and say that Jesus applied this only to the Pharisees, and that it hardly applies to modern Christians. Yet many of us are religious hypocrites, giving the Lord lip service, but refusing Him our hearts. Certainly it is much easier to keep a law which requires only the performance of certain rites, the keeping of certain holy days and the recitation of certain prayers than it is to be truly righteous in our acts, pure in our thoughts, clean of speech, with a genuine love for all mankind and desirous of helping those in distress.
Religious hypocrites pretend to know God but in their thoughts and actions they deny Him.
Thus, what is in a man's heart becomes all-important. What we are is often expressed, however covertly, in what we say. We may profess belief in God, but if we do not revere Him and His name, we break one of His sacred commandments.

Now it's just an antique, a relic of a bygone era. Formerly it served a practical purpose, a special need. Today, Grandfather's horseless carriage is completely outmoded.

Some philosophies are also out of date. New ideas grip our minds and challenge the intellect. We would not want a "horse and buggy" philosophy in this modern world of growth and change.

Some things do not change, for they are eternal. For example, man's soul and his need of God. No modern invention can ever make God and the Church obsolete. Society is different today than it was in Grandfather's day, but man's spiritual needs are the same.

Discover the value of the timeless in the midst of time. Worship God in your church this week and find the eternal truth which spans the ages.

2 Antipoverty Grants For Ohio Given Nod

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Five antipoverty grants newly signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes provide $568,225 in federal funds for programs in Portsmouth, Cleveland, Lorain County and Washington County.

The biggest sum, $373,258, goes to establish six neighborhood Youth Opportunity Centers in Portsmouth. To Lorain County goes $48,800 for a Community Action Committee and $37,754 for a summer remedial and enrichment program for elementary pupils. Washington County gets $33,905 to correlate its antipoverty activities and Cleveland $26,368 to plan health services in poor areas.

Religious Soft-Sell Seen In Music by Teen-Agers

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The setting and most of the songs are typical of any college campus hootenany. But the performers are from a different mold than most folk singers.

"We hope to bring people to an awareness of God and Christ through our music and our owdors," explains 16-year-old Baylus Breezy) Cade III. Cade and three other Las Cruces high school pupils have found what they believe is their life's calling in a religious soft-sell through music. Their pastor calls them rebels with a cause.

"The pulpit-pounding evangelist, so to speak, was good for a certain generation, but that is past and perhaps our own generation needs something else," Cade said. "Maybe this might be the answer. We don't advocate a specific church, just Christianity."

The teen-agers — three boys and a girl — have formed the "Ichthusians," a guitar and vocal group which got its start at the Christian Church Student Center at New Mexico State University.

Their program of popular and folk songs attracted other young people. They interspersed a half dozen religious songs of their own composition "and really put it across," said their pastor, the Rev. Lee Hobert, president of the New Mexico Council of Churches.

"The result was they said to me, 'Is there a real ministry possible in this area; how far can we go; what can we do?' "Their springboard was an international youth emphasis program in Las Cruces," he said. "They wrote a song, 'What in the World Are We Waiting For,' and the punch line of this song is 'Join the rebellion for God,' which pretty well captures the feeling of these kids."

"They say, 'All right, lets rebel, but lets rebel for something rather than against.'"

The quartet's approach and success has brought them before the New Mexico convention of the Christian Church twice for performances.

For the initial performances, Cade, a polio victim since 5, had to be rolled onto the stage in a cart because of a heavy back brace he was wearing. Now it is gone and he uses crutches.

"We've had some kids respond to some of the songs," the Rev. Mr. Hobert said. "There have been kids at these performances who would never darken the door of a church." But he hesitates to use the term converts.

2 Antipoverty Grants For Ohio Given Nod

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Five antipoverty grants newly signed by Gov. James A. Rhodes provide $368,225 in federal funds for programs in Portsmouth, Cleveland, Lorain County and Washington County.

The biggest sum, $373,258, goes to establish six neighborhood Youth Opportunity Centers in Portsmouth. To Lorain County goes $48,800 for a Community Action Committee and $37,754 for a summer remedial and enrichment program for elementary pupils. Washington County gets $33,905 to correlate its antipoverty activities and Cleveland $26,368 to plan health services in poor areas.

Religious Soft-Sell Seen In Music by Teen-Agers

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The setting and most of the songs are typical of any college campus hootenanny. But the performers are from a different mold than most folk singers.

"We hope to bring people to an awareness of God and Christ through our music and our owords," explains 16-year-old Baylus Breezy) Cade III. Cade and three other Las Cruces high school pupils have found what they believe is their life's calling in a religious soft-sell through music. Their pastor calls them rebels with a cause.

"The pulpit-pounding evangelist, so to speak, was good for a certain generation, but that is past and perhaps our own generation needs something else," Cade said. "Maybe this might be the answer. We don't advocate a specific church, just Christianity."

The teen-agers — three boys and a girl — have formed the "Ichthusians," a guitar and vocal group which got its start at the Christian Church Student Center at New Mexico State University.

Their program of popular and folk songs attracted other young people. They interspersed a half dozen religious songs of their own composition "and really put it across," said their pastor, the Rev. Lee Hobert, president of the New Mexico Council of Churches.

"The result was they said to me, 'Is there a real ministry possible in this area; how far can we go; what can we do?' "Their springboard was an international youth emphasis program in Las Cruces," he said. "They wrote a song, 'What in the World Are We Waiting For,' and the punch line of this song is 'Join the rebellion for God,' which pretty well captures the feeling of these kids."

"They say, 'All right, lets rebel, but lets rebel for something rather than against.'"

The quartet's approach and success has brought them before the New Mexico convention of the Christian Church twice for performances.

For the initial performances, Cade, a polio victim since 5, had to be rolled onto the stage in a cart because of a heavy back brace he was wearing. Now it is gone and he uses crutches.

"We've had some kids respond to some of the songs," the Rev. Mr. Hobert said. "There have been kids at these performances who would never darken the door of a church." But he hesitates to use the term converts.

Gemini Crew Ends Flight

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the Manned Spacecraft Center, cited the astronauts' use of the Agena 10 fuel supply and engine to maneuver themselves through space — using the hooked-on Agena as a "freight train."

This, Gilruth said, "is a primary part of Apollo. This is the mode that's used after leaving the moon to come back to earth."

"This mission has demonstrated what we can do in extending the limits of man's flight."

Air Force Lt. Gen. Leighton I. Davis, director of Gemini's Defense Department operations, said the military implications of the rendezvous are "very important."

"The President has said that some day we must come to full assurance that every object in space is there for peaceful purpose," he said.

"The Air Force must have these capabilities to join with and rendezvous and inspect, if you will. And also we must have the capabilities to track and precisely determine what is going on and where things are up there. Gemini 10 has been a fine demonstration of that capability."

The Gemini spacecraft will be used as a ferry vehicle for the Air Force's Manned Orbiting Laboratory — a military machine scheduled for a 1969 launching. By using an Agena as a tanker rocket, the Gemini ferry could be used to transfer to a high-flying laboratory.

Gemini 11, scheduled for launching Sept. 7, may demonstrate this capability by shooting the astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr., to a record altitude of more than 850 miles.

Gen. Davis said that the pin point Gemini 10 landing could lead to reduction of the number of Navy ships scattered around the world for recovery.

He said 300-mile-range helicopters based in strategic points might be sufficient for future recoveries.

Two unexplained problems will get special attention during the debriefings. The first is the excess fuel usage during the rendezvous and docking with the Agena 10 Monday when about twice the planned propellant was used.

The resulting shortage of fuel forced a rearrangement of the flight plan and led to an early end to Collins' space walk Wednesday. Young did not have

State Fair Event Set For Children

The Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children has received an invitation for the crippled children of the county area to attend the Ohio State Fair.

Ohio State Fair management has planned a day's outing on Aug. 29, which has been dubbed Crippled Children's Day. The Ohio Society for Crippled Children and Adults, its local Easter Seal units and other participating groups are inviting children from all parts of the state for the day's outing.

Free admittance to grandstand attractions will be provided for the children and their escorts, along with transportation by shuttle bus on the grounds and free rides on the midway.

Meals will be furnished. Facilities for rest and medical care will also be provided.

Any crippled child under 18 years of age who wishes to take advantage of the opportunity for a day of fun at the state fair should contact Mrs. G. H. Niswender at GR 4-2514 before Aug. 19.

The Shandells, local rock and roll band, will compete in the finals of the Battle of the Bands Saturday evening at the Jackson County Fair, Wellston.

The group defeated the Omars Tuesday, one of Waverly's top bands. Saturday the Circleville group will compete against winners of previous nights.

The Shandells is composed of Steve Dade, vocalist; Ronnie Ison, rhythm guitar; Bob Walisa, bass guitar; Bill Gates, lead guitar; and Steve Armentrout, drums.

Farmer Is Convicted Of Running Big Still

(CLEVELAND (AP))—A probation report has been ordered for an Ashland County farmer convicted of owning the largest moonshine still ever seized in northern Ohio.

Clarence L. Young, 48, of near Nova, Ohio, was convicted in U.S. District Court here Thursday on charges of having a 275-gallon still and 19½ gallons of illicit liquor. Federal agents arrested Young in a raid on his 70-acre farm last Feb. 28. He is free on $10,000 bond.

Ohio Water Pollution Becomes Political Issue

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Water pollution has become a political issue in Ohio, with November general elections only months away.

In a state long faced with skyrocketing water needs and growing pollution problems, the issue has become a major one in the 1966 gubernatorial race.

Gov. Jams A. Rhodes has announced a series of anti-pollution plans and has promised to clean up the state's lakes and streams by 1970.

His opponent, Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, says Rhodes is not doing enough and has no plans at all. Reams has contended he does have plans and will act.

More than two million Ohioans live along Lake Erie, which a Wisconsin senator has called a 240-mile-long "chemical tank." For years, the shallow lake has received sewage and industrial wastes from all the Great Lakes States. The effect has been staggering.

Normally microscopic algae now grows in Lake Erie in strands up to 50 feet long. The algae has helped produce oxygen shortages in up to 25 percent of the lake. Blue pike production has fallen from 6,855,000 pounds in 1956 to 268 pounds last year.

Elsewhere, there are rivers like the Miami in Southwestern Ohio. At Dayton, it is now too polluted for recreational use. In 40 years, it will have to carry twice its present load of wastes.

Other examples can be found throughout the state in streams infected by raw or roughly filtered sewage, industrial wastes, mine drainage, silt or other pollutants. The Maumee, Cuyahoga Mahoning and other major river basins froth with pollution problems.

To most Ohioans, pollution means poor fishing, no swimming, bad smells or an oil ring around the waterline of the family boat. Unless the water gets

Logan Elm Grad Enrolls at CBU

Miss Sarah E. Mowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Mowery Jr., Route 4, has completed arrangements to enter Columbus Business University this fall.

Miss Mowery, a 1964 graduate of Logan Elm High School, will enroll in the airlines reservations and communications secretarial course at the university in September.

cleaner, it will mean much more to many Ohioans.

At this critical point, Ohio needs more water than ever. In 1930, the state used 7½ billion gallons a day. It now uses 12 billion. It will need twice that much at the turn of the century.

The state's daily water usage is twice the national average. Its industries use more than those in any other state.

In the summer, Ohio uses 45 million gallons a day just to water its golf courses.

Lake Erie and the Ohio River could provide 15 times as much water as the state now uses—if pollution can be controlled and the necessary supply lines built.

The problem is almost more clear cut than the state's mechanisms for solving it. No less than five state departments (including 19 separate agencies), four regional and interstate groups and an uncounted number of local agencies have responsibilities in the field.

Rhodes has ordered an attack on the problems of coordination to make these efforts more effective.

Last December, Rhodes told the Ohio Water Commission to produce a comprehensive water management program by the end of the year.

The monumental task, which the commission passed on to its 115-member advisory council last month, called for preparation of:

—A plan to preserve, develop and control the state's water.

—A plan to utilize all available federal, state and local sources of money and manpower.

—A way to determine water quality standards for Ohio lakes and streams.

—Legislation to set up a powerful central water authority and to put the group's other recommendations into effect.

First reports are due Sept. 9 and final reports are to reach the governor's desk about a month after November elections.

In June, the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board set minimum quality standards for the state's major streams. A few days later, Rhodes announced a $1 billion program to improve municipal and industrial waste treatment facilities enough to meet the standards by 1970. The cities and industries are to foot the bills.

The state has also scheduled hearings to consider standards for its interstate waters. The 1965 Federal Water Quality Control Act says such standards must be set by July, 1967.

Rhodes' latest plan is to put anti-pollution devices into the streams themselves, with the murky lower Cuyahoga River as a special target.

Reams meanwhile, has called for establishment of regional agencies with funds and power to watch over entire drainage areas of separate river basins. The Toledo Democrat says the pollution battle should be financed like major highway projects, half federal, one-fourth state and one-fourth local.

Reams says Rhodes underestimates the dangers of phosphate pollutants, a small amount of which can trigger algae blooms like those in Lake Erie. Fertilizers and sewers are their major sources. Accordingly, Reams says cities must be helped to build separate storm and sanitary sewers where needed.

He says the state should help start work now on the facilities, which will cost millions and take years to complete.

While planners plan on both sides of the political fence, the problem mounts — the state water commission says Ohioans pour four billion gallons of unusable waste into their lakes and streams each day.

"The Air Force must have these capabilities to join with and rendezvous and inspect, if you will. And also we must have the capabilities to track and precisely determine what is going on and where things are up there. Gemini 10 has been a fine demonstration of that capability."

The Gemini spacecraft will be used as a ferry vehicle for the Air Force's Manned Orbiting Laboratory — a military machine scheduled for a 1969 launching. By using an Agena as a tanker rocket, the Gemini ferry could be used to transfer to a high-flying laboratory.

Gemini 11, scheduled for launching Sept. 7, may demonstrate this capability by shooting the astronauts, Navy Cmdr. Charles Conrad Jr., and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Richard F. Gordon Jr., to a record altitude of more than 850 miles.

Gen. Davis said that the pin point Gemini 10 landing could lead to reduction of the number of Navy ships scattered around the world for recovery.

He said 300-mile-range helicopters based in strategic points might be sufficient for future recoveries.

Two unexplained problems will get special attention during the debriefings. The first is the excess fuel usage during the rendezvous and docking with the Agena 10 Monday when about twice the planned propellant was used.

The resulting shortage of fuel forced a rearrangement of the flight plan and led to an early end to Collins' space walk Wednesday. Young did not have enough fuel to hold the spacecraft steady while Collins was outside on a 50-foot lifeline.

Collins cut short his "stand-up" excursion — in which he poked his upper body into space to take pictures Tuesday — when pungent, eye irritating chemical fumes seeped into the space suits of both astronauts. By rerouting the suit environmental control system around a lithiumhydroxide supply, which removes carbon dioxide from the system, the problem was eliminated.

The two shortened excursions by Collins leaves space walking the only major goal of the Gemini program that has not been completely fulfilled.

Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II pioneered the field for American astronauts with a 21-minute walk last year. Because of problems, scheduled walks on Gemini 6 and Gemini 8 were canceled.

Gemini 9 astronaut Eugene A. Cernan, a Navy commander, spent a record 2 hours, 10 minutes outside, but had to abandon use of a rocket-powered back pack when unexpected overwork caused his helmet visor to frost over. He quit the walk half an hour earlier than planned.

Collins was outside about 30 minutes, only half the time scheduled. He demonstrated use of a gas gun for propulsion and the ability to work around another satellite. But he did not have time to practice maneuvers on the end of a tether, a problem that plagued both White and Cernan.

Officials said other Gemini goals — rendezvous, docking and long-duration flight up to 14 days — have been demonstrated satisfactorily in the eight manned shots.

Two Gemini shots remain. In November, NASA plans to launch the first three-man Apollo moonship into earth orbit, the first of a series of launchings aimed at a manned lunar landing in 1968 or 1969.

The wives of the astronauts expressed relief when Collins and Young were safely back to earth.

"He looked just great," exclaimed Patricia Collins, after viewing the landing and recovery on television.

"It's been a great day for the Irish," said Barbara Young.

Both wives talked with their husbands by ship-to-shore phone Thursday night.

The Shandells, local rock and roll band, will compete in the finals of the Battle of the Bands Saturday evening at the Jackson County Fair, Wellston.

The group defeated the Omars Tuesday, one of Waverly's top bands. Saturday the Circleville group will compete against winners of previous nights.

The Shandells is composed of Steve Dade, vocalist; Ronnie Ison, rhythm guitar; Bob Walisa, bass guitar; Bill Gates, lead guitar; and Steve Armentrout, drums.

Farmer Is Convicted Of Running Big Still

CLEVELAND (AP) — A probation report has been ordered for an Ashland County farmer convicted of owning the largest moonshine still ever seized in northern Ohio.

Clarence L. Young, 48, of near Nova, Ohio, was convicted in U.S. District Court here Thursday on charges of having a 275-gallon still and 19½ gallons of illicit liquor. Federal agents arrested Young in a raid on his 70-acre farm last Feb. 28. He is free on $10,000 bond.

Ohio Water Pollution Becomes Political Issue

By STEPHEN H. MILLER

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Water pollution has become a political issue in Ohio, with November general elections only months away.

In a state long faced with skyrocketing water needs and growing pollution problems, the issue has become a major one in the 1966 gubernatorial race.

Gov. J. A. Rhodes has announced a series of anti-pollution plans and has promised to clean up the state's lakes and streams by 1970.

His opponent, Sen. Frazier Reams Jr. of Toledo, says Rhodes is not doing enough and has no plans at all. Reams has contended he does have plans and will act.

More than two million Ohioans live along Lake Erie, which a Wisconsin senator has called a 240-mile-long "chemical tank." For years, the shallow lake has received sewage and industrial wastes from all the Great Lakes States. The effect has been staggering.

Normally microscopic algae now grows in Lake Erie in strands up to 50 feet long. The algae has helped produce oxygen shortages in up to 25 percent of the lake. Blue pike production has fallen from 6,855,000 pounds in 1956 to 268 pounds last year.

Elsewhere, there are rivers like the Miami in Southwestern Ohio. At Dayton, it is now too polluted for recreational use. In 40 years, it will have to carry twice its present load of wastes.

Other examples can be found throughout the state in streams infected by raw or roughly filtered sewage, industrial wastes, mine drainage, silt or other pollutants. The Maumee, Cuyahoga Mahoning and other major river basins froth with pollution problems.

To most Ohioans, pollution means poor fishing, no swimming, bad smells or an oil ring around the waterline of the family boat. Unless the water gets cleaner, it will mean much more to many Ohioans.

At this critical point, Ohio needs more water than ever. In 1930, the state used 7½ billion gallons a day. It now uses 12 billion. It will need twice that much at the turn of the century.

The state's daily water usage is twice the national average. Its industries use more than those in any other state.

In the summer, Ohio uses 45 million gallons a day just to water its golf courses.

Lake Erie and the Ohio River could provide 15 times as much water as the state now uses — if pollution can be controlled and the necessary supply lines built.

The problem is almost more clear cut than the state's mechanisms for solving it. No less than five state departments (including 19 separate agencies), four regional and interstate groups and an uncounted number of local agencies have responsibilities in the field.

Rhodes has ordered an attack on the problems of coordination to make these efforts more effective.

Last December, Rhodes told the Ohio Water Commission to produce a comprehensive water management program by the end of the year.

The monumental task, which the commission passed on to its 115-member advisory council

Logan Elm Grad Enrolls at CBU

Miss Mowery, a 1964 graduate of Logan Elm High School, will enroll in the airlines reservations and communications secretarial course at the university in September.

cil last month, called for preparation of:

—A plan to preserve, develop and control the state's water.

—A plan to utilize all available federal, state and local sources of money and manpower.

—A way to determine water quality standards for Ohio lakes and streams.

—Legislation to set up a powerful central water authority and to put the group's other recommendations into effect.

First reports are due Sept. 9 and final reports are to reach the governor's desk about a month after November elections.

In June, the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board set Minimum quality standards for the state's major streams. A few days later, Rhodes announced a $1 billion program to improve municipal and industrial waste treatment facilities enough to meet the standards by 1970. The cities and industries are to foot the bills.

The state has also scheduled hearings to consider standards for its interstate waters. The 1965 Federal Water Quality Control Act says such standards must be set by July, 1967.

Rhodes' latest plan is to put anti-pollution devices into the streams themselves, with the murky lower Cuyahoga River as a special target.

Reams meanwhile, has called for establishment of regional agencies with funds and power to watch over entire drainage areas of separate river basins. The Toledo Democrat says the pollution battle should be financed like major highway projects, half federal, one-fourth state and one-fourth local.

Reams says Rhodes underestimates the dangers of phosphate pollutants, a small amount of which can trigger algae blooms like those in Lake Erie. Fertilizers and sewers are their major sources. Accordingly, Reams says cities must be helped to build separate storm and sanitary sewers where needed. He says the state should help start work now on the facilities, which will cost millions and take years to complete.

While planners plan on both sides of the political fence, the problem mounts — the state water commission says Ohioans pour four billion gallons of unusable waste into their lakes and streams each day.

Elks Victory Tightens LL Majors Race

The BPO Elks took a crack at the league leading Coca-Cola Jets Thursday, downing them, 7-6, to tighten up the Little League Majors.

The Jets have nine wins and three losses with three games remaining. Bingham's and The Herald Hawks share second with seven wins, four losses and four games left.

The Elks and Jets were knotted after the fourth frame at 6-6. The Elks broke the knot with a run in the fifth.

Terry Morrison was the winning pitcher. He held the Jets to three hits.

DONNIE Valentine suffered the loss for Coke, scattering five hits.

Danny Garrett homered for the winners. Edgar Ferguson tripled. Morrison added a double and a single.

Dave Gillis had the only extra baser for the Jets, a double. Greg Heiskell and Rich Speakman had the other hits.

Washington, Laurelville Gain Wins

In Tri - County League action Thursday Washington tromped Pickaway, 38-4, and Laurelville Boosters dropped Saltcreek, 12-6.

Washington was spurred by a 23-hit attack. Gary Francis was the spark plug, as he powered two homers, one with the bases full, and also pitched a three hitter at Pickaway. Jeff Russle had four doubles in four at bats for Washington.

Willis Fannon, Terry Crumley and Mark Justice also doubled for the Wildcats.

The Laurelville Boosters used 15 hits to propel them to the win. Steve McConaughy homered and tripled for the Merchants. Wesley Blum, and Keith Lowery also tripled. Ralph Smith and Richard Jones doubled for the winners.

JERRY JINKS tagged a three bagger for the Warriors. Teammate Mike Jones poled a double.

McConaughy worked the first three innings on the mound for the winners and Smith the last three. Together they walked seven, fanned nine and scattered 11 hits.

Mike Jones went the distance on the mound for Saltcreek, walking six and whiffing two.

Girl, 17, Hurls Threat at Champ

BARRINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Mrs. Barbara Fay Boddie's bid for a third successive championship was challenged by spunky 17-year-old Jane Hunsberger of Carmarillo, Calif., in the semifinals of the Women's Western Amateur Golf Tournament today.

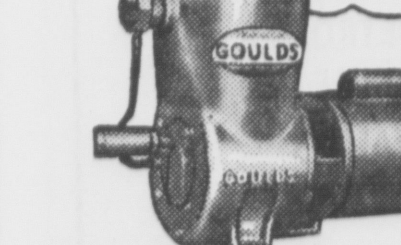

The other semifinal duel over the Barrington Hills Country Club's rolling 6,480-yard course matched Sharron Moran, 23, of Carlsbad, Calif., and 19-year-old Peggy Conley, University of Washington art student from Spokane.

Mrs. Boddie, 26, only survivor among five Curtis Cup starters in an original field 149, sought to become the first winner of three successive titles since Bessie Anthony won in 1901, 1902, 1903.

LL Minors Title Earned by IOOF

IOOF, a team that led the Little League Minors for seven weeks on an unblemished record and then lost to Ward's Market Wednesday, earned the loop crown Thursday by walloping the Savings Bank, 30-4.

Second National Bank aided the Odd Fellows title chase by knocking off second place First National Bank, 9-7. In a third game in the loop Wards Market edged Blue Ribbon Dairy, 12-11.

The Odd Fellows have 11 wins and one loss. Closest rivals are Second and First National, standing 8-4. There are two games left on the schedule for the leaders.

Brian Barthelmas tackled his first pitching chores of the season last night as he threw the win for IOOF. He allowed only one hit, a single by Dave Ramsey.

FOR THE winners Rock Davis tagged a four bagger, Bennett Seum tripled twice and Batehelmas, Whaley and Kris Kline doubled.

The Second Bankers held the lead all the way scoring six in the first three frames. First Nation's only threat came in the fifth when they tallied five.

Kirk Brown hurled the distance for the winners, walking four, fanning 10 and allowing seven hits.

GE Moves Ahead in Babe Ruth

General Electric moved a half - game in front of L. M. Butch in the Babe Ruth League Thursday by clobbering Kiwanis, 16-5.

Randy Martin went the distance for the winners. He issued three walks and fanned five enroute to giving up 11 hits.

Ty Ankrom started for Ke- wanis and went into the sixth when Pat Whaley relieved and finished. Together they walked nine, fanned three and scattered 11 hits.

GE's big punch came in the fourth and sixth frames when they tallied seven and eight respectively.

LARRY DEAN and George Griebel tripled for the winners. Tom Yeattles, Steve Nelson and Roger Fausnaugh added doubles.

For Kiwanis Ron Bryant tripled. Bill Gillian, John Dean and Jack White poked doubles.

The Electricians stand 9-1 while L. M. Butch has an 8-1 slate.

Manager Opines His Team Will Be 'Up There'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS As oratory, it may not rank with the declamations of Winston Churchill, say, or Casey Stengel, but future baseball historians may well regard Westrum's statement as marking a critical turning point in the history of the New York Mets.

The Mets' manager was smiling beneficently at his charges Thursday as they celebrated their 14-3 victory over San Francisco and their six-game win streak, longest in the history of the club.

"If we continue at this pace," Westrum philosophized, "we'll be up there at the end of this month."

Westrum did not specify exactly where "up there is, but he made his point. Never in their five-year existence, have the Mets ben able to consider any problem more pressing than escaping last place.

But now, more than 10 games removed from the cellar, the Mets can begin to think the unthinkable. Eighth place perhaps — only a half-game away. Or would you believe seventh? It's just two games ahead.

The Mets' win streak began with two doubleheader triumphs over Houston and now has included two in a row over the Giants, who have lost seven of their last nine games and are within a game of first place only because of Los Angeles' der- ring-do victory over the Pirates, 4-3.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago beat Cincinnati 6-1, St. Louis out slugged Atlanta 7-4 and Houston edged Philadelphia 3-2 in 10 innings.

In the American League, Boston beat California 7-3, New York edged Kansas City in 10 innings 4-3, Chicago beat Cleveland 7-2, Minnesota took Washington 1-0 and Baltimore beat Detroit 6-4.

"I'm proud, very proud," said Westrum of his club's win streak. "I thought about it before the game." And winning pitcher Dennis Ribant summed up the current mood of the club succinctly: "We feel we can win now."

Ed Kranepool and Jerry Grote slammed three-run homers in the Mets' pasting of the Giants and Cleon Jones contributed a bases-empty shot.

Chisox Beat Tribe Three Times Again

CLEVELAND (AP) — It's getting so bad even Johnny Buzhardt is beating the Indians. The veteran Chicago hurler was the winner Thursday night as the White Sox beat the Indians, 7-2, the third straight Chicago win over the Indians this week. The White Sox beat the Indians three times last week, too, giving them sweeps of the two series in Chicago and Cleveland.

It was the first time in his nine years in the majors that Buzhardt had beaten Cleveland. He had beaten every other club at least once.

The 29-year-old righthander blanked the Indians for eight innings after his mates gave him a two-run lead in the top of the first.

The Indians started something going in the eighth, when Max Alvis walked and Jim Gentile rapped a single.

With pitcher Sonny Siebert due up, Manager Birdie Tebbets called on a pinchhitter, sending Dick Howser to bat. Howser took the first pitch for a strike and bunted foul twice for a strikeout. The rally died when Pedro Gonzalez hit into a double play.

Bob Allen relieved Siebert in the ninth and the Indians gave up five more runs to lose the game, 7-2.

Schayes To Guide Officials in NBA

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Association set a brisk pace in completing its one-day meeting with only one major development, the naming of Dolph Schayes as supervisor of officials.

A league spokesman said the circuit's board of governors also discussed next season's schedule during the four-hour meeting, but announced only Schayes' appointment.

Schayes, a star player for 16 years and former coach of the Philadelphia 76ers, succeeds Sid Borgia, who held the post for five years. Borgia retired to devote more time to a private business.

Big Weekend of Racing Scheduled at Scioto Downs

Racing scheduled for Scioto Downs Friday and Saturday night is highlighted by the $12,000 Challenge Stakes for 2 year-old pacers on Friday night and the $4,000 Invitational Pace Saturday night.

The Challenge Stakes for 2 year-old sidwheeler attracted twenty entries and forced the race into two divisions, each going for $6,000.

Scheduled as the fifth and sixth races on the Friday night nine race card, Gene B. Good, C. K. Adios and King's Regent line up as the early pre - race choices in the first division, and Coral Ridge, Best of All and Banker Bourne head up the second division.

Adding lustre to the Friday night card is the $4,000 Invitational Trot with eight fast class high - stepping trotters ready to go postward.

The $4,000 Invitational Trot on Friday night has been the topic of conversation at every race track in the country. The event, which has produced two Season Champions this season in Candid Rodney and Nevele Dell, has a select eight horse field ready for action this week. In addition to Great Pleasure, the grand - gaited mare reined by McKinley Kirk, Viola Darnley with trained - driver Don McConaughy up, Kahiki with Dewey Urban, Mudge's Tommy, and Victory Message and Dick Buxton, the event attracted Sara Rodney, owned by George Albers of Marion.

This week the great daughter of Rodney will have the services of Bruce Nickells at the helm. And coming back to the scene of his greatest triumph is Darn Faber, owned by R. D. Ricketts of Houston, Tex.

Saturday night the Invitational pacers take over in the $4,000 feature. The early pre - race choice is the tough Irish T, owned by young Jim Ellis of DeGraff, Ohio. Trained and driven by Marc Ferguson, this bold - gaited 3 year - old son of Irish, has racked up seven wins in 12 starts this year with four seconds, and one third, and a victory Saturday night would push his season earnings over $10,000. Ferguson and Irish T enjoyed their finest hour at Scioto last Saturday with a commanding victory in 2:00 4-5 in the Invitational. This week Irish T will have his work cut out for him. In addition to the former challengers, Hideaway Pat who has won in 2:00 3-5 and Faithful Kid, a 2:02 1-5 winner at Lexington, the field includes Sudan's Comet, a battling son of Warpath with a half mile track record of 2:03 and Craig Creed, a powerful brown son of Jimmy Creed with a mark of 2:00 1-5 owned and driven by Elmer Conrad of Corydon, Ind.

reined by McKinley Kirk, Viola Darnley with trained-driver Don McConaughy up, Kahiki with Dewey Urban, Mudge's Tommy, and Victory Message and Dick Buxton, the event attracted Sara Rodney, owned by George Albers of Marion.

This week the great daughter of Rodney will have the services of Bruce Nickells at the helm. And coming back to the scene of his greatest triumph is Darn Faber, owned by R. D. Ricketts of Houston, Tex.

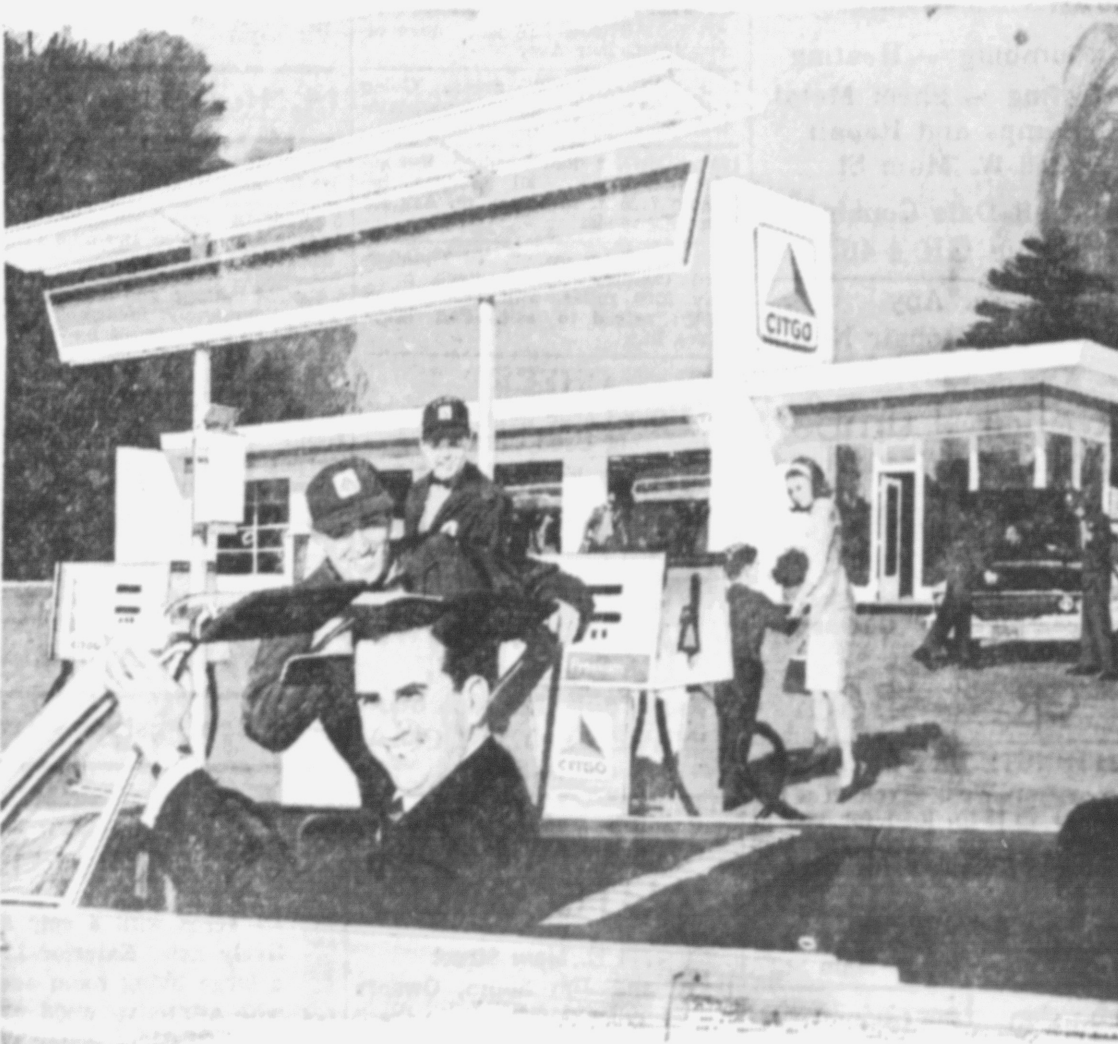

Saturday night the Invitational pacers take over in the $4,000 feature. The early pre-race choice is the tough Irish T, owned by young Jim Ellis of DeGraff, Ohio. Trained and driven by Marc Ferguson, this bold-gaited 3 year-old son of Irish, has racked up seven wins in 12 starts this year with four seconds, and one third, and a victory Saturday night would push his season earnings over $10,000. Ferguson and Irish T enjoyed their finest hour at Scioto last Saturday with a commanding victory in 2:00 4-5 in the Invitational. This week Irish T will have his work cut out for him. In addition to the former challengers, Hideaway Pat who has won in 2:00 3-5 and Faithful Kid, a 2:02 1-5 winner at Lexington, the field includes Sudan's Comet, a battling son of Warpath with a half mile track record of 2:03 and Craig Creed, a powerful brown son of Jimmy Creed, with a mark of 2:00 1-5 owned and driven by Elmer Conrad of Corydon, Ind.

Snead, who the day before the tournament complained of aches and pains and was afraid he wouldn't make the 36-hole cut, laughed and joked about his fantastic round. But there was nothing funny about his game.

He bagged five birdies and might have held the undisputed lead had he canned an eight-foot putt on the 18th hole after working his way around a tree and out of a trap.

"The putt was so bad," said Snead, "that I was ashamed to pick up the ball. I felt like a monkey with a football who didn't know where to put it."

Geiberger, unlike Snead who has three PGA titles in the long list of championships he has captured, never has won a major crown.

But the skinny man, who carries sandwiches in his golf bag to restore his energy, clicked at Firestone last year when he won the American Golf Classic while munching peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

"I had a sandwich in my bag," laughed Geiberger who started his round with three straight birdies and could nail only one more the rest of the day, "but I never got around to eating it. I had a cheese sandwich before I started and that proved to be enough."

Among the first round leaders, only Sanders, the No. 2 leading money winner behind Billy Casper this year, was considered a threat to capture the elusive title.

Casper, who won the National Open in a playoff against Palmer in San Francisco last month, was in a large group tied for sixth place with 73s.

Five players managed one-over-par 71s. They were Tommy Aaron, Jack Fleck, Larry Beck, Jim Ferrier and Walter Inman Jr.

Grouped at 72 were George Knudson, Bob Keller, Babe Lichardus, Dan Sikes Jr., and Al Mengert.

Sam Snead, 54, Is Tied For Lead in PGA Test

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Slammin' Sammy Snead, the 54-year-old West Virginian, and Al Geiberger, a serious and studious 28-year-old from California, are threatening to upset the dopsters in the PGA's Golden Anniversary Golf Tournament.

To the surprise of everyone, including themselves, the two played with deadly accuracy Thursday to share the first-round lead with two-under-par 68s.

Snead, who the day before the tournament complained of aches and pains and was afraid he wouldn't make the 36-hole cut, laughed and joked about his fantastic round. But there was nothing funny about his game.

He bagged five birdies and might have held the undisputed lead had he canned an eight-foot putt on the 18th hole after working his way around a tree and out of a trap.

"The putt was so bad," said Snead, "that I was ashamed to pick up the ball. I felt like a monkey with a football who didn't know where to put it."

Geiberger, unlike Snead who has three PGA titles in the long list of championships he had captured, never has won a major crown.

But the skinny man, who carries sandwiches in his golf bag to restore his energy, clicked at Firestone last year when he won the American Golf Classic while munching peanut butter and jelly sandwiches.

"I had a sandwich in my bag," laughed Geiberger who started his round with three straight birdies and could nail only one more the rest of the day, "but I never got around to eating it. I had a cheese sandwich before I started and that proved to be enough."

Among the first round leaders, only Sanders, the No. 2 leading money winner behind Billy Casper this year, was considered a threat to capture the elusive title.

Five players managed one-over-par 71s. They were Tommy Aaron, Jack Fleck, Larry Beck, Jim Ferrier and Walter Luman Jr.

Grouped at 72 were George Knudson, Bob Keller, Babe Lichardus, Dan Sikes Jr., and Al Mengert.

An agreement has been reached for the sale of Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corporation's Bellingham, Wash., cement plant to Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, the two concerns have announced.

The agreement also provides for the purchase of Pittsburgh Plate Glass of the cement plant's limestone quarry at Maple Falls, Washington, and a cement distribution terminal at Harbor Island, Seattle.

Under the terms of a settlement agreement reached with the Federal Trade Commission in March, 1965, Kaiser Cement agreed to divest itself of the affected properties to a purchaser approved by the FTC. The Commission's consent order entered pursuant to the agreement disposed of a 1960 complaint by the FTC that Kaiser Cement's 1958 acquisition of the Bellingham plant violated Section 7 of the Clayton Act.

The multimillion-dollar sale to Pittsburgh Plate Glass has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission, according to the announcement.

Owens - Illinois, Inc., has completed arrangements to enter the sugar business in the Bahamas Islands.

Owens - Illinois of the Bahamas, a wholly owned subsidiary of Owens - Illinois, will begin producing 50,000 tons of raw sugar annually, plus a smaller quantity of refined sugar, on Great Abaco Island in 1968. R. H. Mulford, president of the company, said.

Arrangements for the subsidiary's entry into the sugar business were formally completed with the signing of Nassau of an agreement between it and the Bahamas government.

Owens - Illinois of the Bahamas will establish a 20,000-acre commercial sugar cane plantation on Great Abaco Island on land it is acquiring from the Bahamas government. The company also has an option to lease up to 25,000 additional acres on 25-year renewable leases, thereby enabling it to increase its production to 100,000 tons of raw sugar annually in the future.

Under the agreement Owens-Illinois of the Bahamas is releasing to the Bahamas government its cutting rights on more than 100,000 acres of British Crown Lands it now has under a timber-cutting lease extending to the year 2000.

Only 11 Sandusky Businesses Ask Aid

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Floods that hit the Sandusky area have brought only 11 applications for loans from the Small Business Administration, the local SBA office reported.

All of the 11 came from homeowners and none from operators of business places, the office said Thursday.

AWARD PRESENTED — Rear Admiral Means Johnston (left), Naval Base commander, congratulates Lieutenant (jg) Frank Dickinson for his recent award of the Navy's Commendation of Achievement ribbon. The lieutenant's wife, Mary, attended the ceremonies which were conducted in the admiral's office on Tuesday.

Navy Achievement Ribbon Awarded to Lt. Dickinson

Lieutenant (jg) Frank W. Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal D. Dickinson, 209 N. Scioto St., received the Navy's Commendation of Achievement ribbon Tuesday.

Lt. Dickinson received the award, presented by Rear Admiral Means Johnston Jr., in recognition of his performance of duty while serving at the Naval Communications Station in the Philippines.

The citation reads: "During the period of January 1964 to January 1966 while assigned as communications watch officer, traffic officer and circuit control officer in the Philippines, Lt. Dickinson assumed positions and responsibilities normally assigned to officers senior and more experienced than himself. In the assumption of these duties, he demonstrated outstanding initiative, diligence and resourcefulness, thereby upholding the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

The lieutenant was graduated from Ohio University in 1964 with a BS degree in commerce.

He entered officer candidate school in July and upon graduation in November was assigned to the Philippines. He served there until January 1966 when he was assigned to Newport, R.I.

Unlimited HP Possible at Deer Creek

What will be the horsepower limit for boats on the Deer Creek Reservoir when it is completed?

Many area boating enthusiasts and prospective boat owners have been asking the question as the work progresses at the construction site.

The recreational facilities at the lake will be under the jurisdiction of the Division of Parks of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Marvin Rebholz, chief of the division, reports that as yet, no decision has been reached concerning horsepower size.

"GENERALLY speaking, lakes of the size of the Deer Creek Reservoir (1,277 acres) have no horsepower limits," Rebholz reports.

However, he pointed that under extenuating circumstances, such as an extremely narrow lake, horsepower sizes may be curtailed.

With completion of the reservoir not scheduled until late 1967, Rebholz indicated the decision on horsepower size will be considered later.

Senators Urge Restraint in Any U.S. Retaliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. J. W. Fulbright and Leverett Saltonstall have called for restraint in any American retaliation if North Viet Nam puts captured U.S. pilots on trial as war criminals.

President Johnson offered at his news conference Wednesday a U.S. meeting with Hanoi officials on the treatment of war prisoners — or to discuss any other subject.

The President denounced threats to put the prisoners on trial as "deplorable." But he carefully avoided saying whether retaliatory measures might be taken.

Amid widespread predictions in Congress that prisoner trials for all-out conventional war would generate public demands against North Viet Nam, Fulbright said this would be a "disastrous course" for the United States to take.

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said, "If we start retaliatory action I'm afraid there would be no end to it."

"The history of warfare indicates that retaliatory action leads to barbaric conflict," he said. "I would hope that, at least, there will be no attacks on civilians in any action we might take."

Fulbright is a leading critic of Johnson's Viet Nam war policies.

Saltonstall, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said in a separate interview that everything possible must be done to make it clear to the North Vietnamese that they cannot condemn American war prisoners as criminals at trumped-up trials. "But we must act legally," the Massachusetts senator said. "We cannot engage in indiscriminate slaughter as a retaliatory measure. We don't want to make criminals of ourselves just because they do."

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, told the Senate Wednesday the South Vietnamese are executing many prisoners of war turned over to them by U.S. forces. He said the United States "in the name of humanity and decency" should stop transferring Viet Cong prisoners to South Vietnamese units.

Young said he would favor the "gravest reprisals" if Hanoi puts U.S. prisoners on trial. He added such trials would make escalation of the war inevitable and "mean the deaths of many, many Vietnamese nationals."

On the international front, Moscow Radio said it goes along with Hanoi's view that the captured American airmen are war criminals—not prisoners of war. The report monitored in Tokyo referred to recent statements by North Vietnamese diplomats that the captured airmen are war criminals and the issue lies solely with Hanoi authorities.

An agreement has been reached for the sale of Kaiser Cement & Gypsum Corporation's Bellingham, Wash., cement plant to Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, the two concerns have announced.

The agreement also provides for the purchase of Pittsburgh Plate Glass of the cement plant's limestone quarry at Maple Falls, Washington, and a cement distribution terminal at Harbor Island, Seattle.

Under the terms of a settlement agreement reached with the Federal Trade Commission in March, 1965, Kaiser Cement agreed to divest itself of the affected properties to a purchaser approved by the FTC. The Commission's consent order entered pursuant to the agreement disposed of a 1960 complaint by the FTC that Kaiser Cement's 1958 acquisition of the Bellingham plant violated Section 7 of the Clayton Act.

The multimillion-dollar sale to Pittsburgh Plate Glass has been approved by the Federal Trade Commission, according to the announcement.

Owens - Illinois, Inc., has completed arrangements to enter the sugar business in the Bahamas Islands.

Owens - Illinois of the Bahamas, a wholly owned subsidiary of Owens - Illinois, will begin producing 50,000 tons of raw sugar annually, plus a smaller quantity of refined sugar, on Great Abaco Island in 1968. R. H. Mulford, president of the company, said.

Arrangements for the subsidiary's entry into the sugar business were formally completed with the signing of Nassau of an agreement between it and the Bahamas government.

Owens - Illinois of the Bahamas will establish a 20,000-acre commercial sugar cane plantation on Great Abaco Island on land it is acquiring from the Bahamas government. The company also has an option to lease up to 25,000 additional acres on 25-year renewable leases, thereby enabling it to increase its production to 100,000 tons of raw sugar annually in the future.

Under the agreement Owens - Illinois of the Bahamas is leasing to the Bahamas government its cutting rights on more than 100,000 acres of British Crown Lands it now has under a timber-cutting lease extending to the year 2000.
